EMERGENCY ACT IN EFFECT UNTIL CRISIS IS OVER

Enforced Conservation of Water May Be Necessary for Entire Month of August, in Opinion of Commissioner Schroeder—No Penalty Is to Be Imposed On Violators But Their Supply Will Be Shut Off.

Use of a hose for sprinkling lawns or gardens, for washing automobiles or any other waste of water is prohibited in the city of Lincoln until cooler weather and rain definitely end the water crisis, under an emergency ordinance passed at a special meeting of the city council Saturday morning. The enforced conservation will probably be necessary for the rest of August, City Commissioner William Schroeder, head of the water department declared.

On recommendation of the water advisory board, which met Friday afternoon, no penalty is to be imposed on violators of the law. However, the water department or its agents are authorized to shut off the supply to any home or building whose occupants refuse to comply, to be turned on again oly when the water officials are satisfied that the offenders are ready to obey. Emphasizing the fact that the measure is the response to a serious emergency, the water board also decided to suspend the usual fee for reinstating servic.

In discussing the problem, Mr. Schroeder declared that the majority of citizens had voluntarily conserved water for the past month after he had issued appeal through the press.

Says Much Water Wasted.

"I thought that all of the people in the city of Lincoln would be glad to help us when we merely asked them to. However, I find that there are many water hogs who, fearing that the use of water for lawns might be cut, off, have been wasting more water than ever in order to soak the grass before the law is passed. Other people, seeing some of their neighbors using water, feel that they might as well do the same. Because of the few who have refused to co-operate, it has become necessary to pass this ordinance.

"I hate to do this, and I hope it won't be necessary to keep the law in effect very long. However, I be-

What Emergency Measure Prohibits

The emergency water conservation ordinance passed Saturday morning by the city council prohibits:

Sprinkling lawns, gardens or trees.

Washing autos with a hose.

Attaching hoses to sill-cocks or hydrants.

Waste of any kind.

The law will remain in effect until cool weather and rain bring the crisis in water supply to an end. It is considered probable that this will mean all of August.

STORY DENIED BY ROBERTSON

Brought to Him By Paul Johnson Night of Goss Hearing.

A statement explaining how he came to have in his possession, for a short time, the signed withdrawal of George W. Norris of Broken Bow as a candidate for United States senator and why it was not filed with the secretary of state has been given to the press by John P. Robertson, son-in-law and political manager of Senator George W. Norris of Broken Bow.

It is in answer to the suggestion from critics of the senator that the filing by his namesake may have been a scheme engineered by his friends to create sentiment in his favor. Mr. Robertson explains his own part in the matter as follows:

"Connected By Enemies."

"This insinuation is simply part of a plan connected to discredit Senator Norris by his political enemies. It has absolutely no foundation in truth or in fact.

STATE LEVY OF 2.34 MILLS IS SET BY BOARD

Slight Reduction From 1929 Effected By Decision.

BOARD APPROVES DOUBTFUL ITEMS

New Rate Is Sufficient To Bring In Over $7,000,000.

Nebraska's tax levy for state governmental purposes this year will be 2.34 mills, a slight reduction from the 2.40 mills assessed in 1929. That rate was fixed by the state board of equalization during the noon hour Saturday. It is sufficient to take care of all items in the biennial budget bill, including those which the state Supreme court recently held to be valid and effective notwithstanding that Governor Weaver vetoed them.

At the last moment the board abandoned its plan of cutting the levy to 2.30 mills by leaving out these four appropriation items:

Manual training school building and landscaping of grounds at Omaha school for deaf, $58,000.

Equipment for university medical college hospital, Omaha, $40,000.

Reservoir, $9,000, and pump, $3,000 at penitentiary, Lincoln; total, $12,000.

Construction of building at Bridgeport to house equipment and records of state irrigation bureau, $10,000.

Attorney General Sorensen had furnished the board an opinion advising it that these four items did not come under the Supreme court's ruling, because they had not been first submitted to the governor as specific budget requests but were inserted in the general appropriation bill as news items by the legislature.

Draws a Distinction.

The Supreme court found that after the legislature, by three-fifths vote of each branch, has passed the

New Fabric To Be Replaced on Torn Fin Without U. S. Visit.

Lakehurst Hangar Facilities Offered to Officers Of Dirigible.

ST. HUBERT AIRPORT, Que., Aug. 2—(AP)—The work of repairing the damaged fin of the British dirigible R-100, from which the fabric was torn loose in her voyage from Cardington, Eng., to St Hubert, was well under way today

As the repairs proceeded it seemed certain that they would be completed here without recourse to United States naval airship facilities at Lakehurst, N J.

A new panel had been measured and was ready for lacing into place After it is placed the really dangerous part of the work will begin, that of "doping" the new fabric.

Dangerous Task.

Unable to reach the fin by ladders, as would be possible in a hangar, two men will be swung from the top of the dirigible in bo'sns chairs, one on either side, and from this improvised stage, 200 feet

LATE CORN CAN WITHSTAND HEAT

Two Weeks More Would Not Be Fatal To The Crop.

Would Produce 60 Per Cent Unless Hot Winds Come.

Late corn can stand two weeks more of hot weather unless hot winds become prevalent and still produce better than a 60 per cent crop in the opinion of county farmers as expressed Saturday.

Admitting that pessimism is growing, three farmers in different sections of the county, when interviewed by phone Saturday, expressed optimism for the corn possibilities in the county yet this year.

Charles J. Warner, of Waverly, said that the late corn in the northeastern part of the county is still in good shape and would be for two weeks, barring the possibility of extreme hot winds. A rain as late as the middle of August, he estimated would bring the late corn through to a good crop.

Early corn is about half gone now, he said, but could still make a substantial percentage of a normal crop if rain comes within a few days and the winds don't get too hot. He declared that the corn had been more seriously burned other years and still come through.

Not Badly Fired.

Ray Detweiler, in the northwestern part of the county, expressed a similar opinion. He said the corn is not fired as high as last year yet. The inch and a half rain in his area a week and a half ago was a big help, he said, and unless it gets too hot and windy, the crop should recover in good shape

George M. Bronn of Roca was hopeful over the prospects in the southern part of the county, where rain has been even less than in the northwestern part Late corn can stand another week or ten days, he believes Rain in 36 hours would give better than a 60 per cent corn crop in his vicinity, he feels. Early corn has been badly damaged, but can make some crop yet if rain comes. Lancaster county's corn is in worse shape than Johnson county, but not so bad as Gage, he stated.

While farmers are worrying about the possibility of hot winds and anxiously hoping for relief from the drouth, they are finishing up the season's threshing Threshing of wheat has practically been completed with the county's production expected to average around 20 bushels to the acre, perhaps better. Oats, too, are largely threshed with satisfactory yields.

Good Wheat Yields.

James Doolittle, living eleven miles south of Lincoln on Fourteenth street, reported to Mr Bronn Saturday that he had one wheat acreage which produced 52

MEARS FINISHES FIRST LEG OF WORLD FLIGHT

TRYING TO BETTER ZEPPELIN'S RECORD

Fliers Hope To Set New Globe Spanning Mark Of 20 Days.

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Aug. 2—(INS)—Successfully completing the first leg of their projected record-breaking flight around the world, John Henry Mears and Henry J. Brown arrived at 4:25 p. m., local time, today.

Brown, the pilot, brought the plane, christened "City of New York," down on the Harbor Grace landing field without difficulty. The landing was made at 2:55 p. m., eastern daylight saving time.

Mears and Brown, who are attempting to encircle the world in less than twenty days and thus shatter the record now held by the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, covered the 1,200 miles from Roosevelt field, Long Island, to Harbor Grace in 8 hours, 15 minutes. They left the Long Island field at 6:40 a. m., eastern daylight time today.

An Uneventful Trip.

The long journey up the New England coast and across the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Newfoundland was virtually without incident.

Mears and Brown are making the flight in a speedy Lockheed Vega Wasp plane. The airmen originally had allowed nine hours for the trip to Harbor Grace, but the speed of the plane exceeded their own expectations.

They planned to refuel the craft immediately and take off as soon as possible across the Atlantic ocean to Baldonnel aerdrome, near Dublin.

Zuta, identified by Sheriff Phil Herbrand of Waukesha county through photographs, had been charged by some as the man who ordered Jake Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, slain. The attempt to "get" Zuta in Chicago's loop occurred on State street several weeks tgo after he had been questioned at the detective bureau rgarding the Lingle slaying. He and several cronies in an automobile driven by a police lieutenant were fired on, but he escaped uninjured.

At that time Zuta expressed fear for his life and would not leave the detective bureau until given a police escort.

TO REORGANIZE NORFOLK BANK

Believed That Plans Submitted Will Meet Approval.

NORFOLK, Neb., Aug. 2—(AP)—Reorganization of the Nebraska State bank here, one of the largest state banks in Nebraska, today was believed assured. At a mass meeting last night, depositors of the bank voted in favor of accepting a 20 per cent "write-off" of deposits and also in favor of an agreement to withdraw not more than 10 per cent of the present deposits in any one month.

A committee which went over the assets of the institution recommended a plan for the elimination of items listed at $440,000 This will be covered by $85,000 in double liability, uncarned dividends returned and donations by bank directors, $130,000 new capital and surplus to be raised and about $225,000 represented by the depositors' "write-off."

At the meeting, a committee composed of John Isaacson, Otto Beckenhauer, Gene Huse, Frank Sprangenberg, Ralph Finley, W. J Flint and T. T. Hutchinson, was named to handle the reorganization plans and to act as trustee of the assets.

It was announced today that the depositors are signing the agreement and the belief was expressed that the required 85 per cent will have signed within a few days W D. Hartwell, special agent of the banking department, said the proposed plan would make the bank one of the strongest in the state

BIG RESERVE IS HELD BY BANKS

That In Cash Amounted To $35,400,000 On June 30.

Deposits and Loans Show Decrease From Last Report.

Six hundred and two state banks of Nebraska had on hand June 30, last, a total cash reserve of 22 per cent, amounting to over $35,400,000, and a further reserve of 18 per cent, or above $29,000,000, in bonds and other approved and readily marketable securities, as shown by their reports of that date to State Bank Commissioner Woods.

This made a total reserve of 40 per cent against nearly $156,000,000 of deposits carried in the banks. Their combined capital stock, surplus, undivided profits, and special reserves for contingencies on the date mentioned were in excess of $24,000,000. Loans and discounts aggregated nearly $110,000,000.

Compared with the last previous report for March 31, a decrease of 14½ million dollars in deposits and $10,000,000 in loans appears on the collective statment. Part of this was a seasonal decline and part due to the fact that the number of banks

Enforced Conservation of Water May Be Necessary for Entire Month of August, in Opinion of Commissioner Schroeder—No Penalty Is to Be Imposed On Violators But Their Supply Will Be Shut Off.

Use of a hose for sprinkling lawns or gardens, for washing automobiles or any other waste of water is prohibited in the city of Lincoln until cooler weather and rain definitely end the water crisis, under an emergency ordinance passed at a special meeting of the city council Saturday morning. The enforced conservation will probably be necessary for the rest of August, City Commissioner William Schroeder, head of the water department declared.

On recommendation of the water advisory board, which met Friday afternoon, no penalty is to be imposed on violators of the law. However, the water department or its agents are authorized to shut off the supply to any home or building whose occupants refuse to comply, to be turned on again oly when the water officials are satisfied that the offenders are ready to obey. Emphasizing the fact that the measure is the response to a serious emergency, the water board also decided to suspend the usual fee for reinstating servic.

In discussing the problem, Mr. Schroeder declared that the majority of citizens had voluntarily conserved water for the past month after he had issued appeal through the press.

What Emergency Measure Prohibits

The emergency water conservation ordinance passed Saturday morning by the city council prohibits:

Sprinkling lawns, gardens or trees.

The law will remain in effect until cool weather and rain bring the crisis in water supply to an end. It is considered probable that this will mean all of August.

STATE LEVY OF 2.34 MILLS IS SET BY BOARD

Slight Reduction From 1929 Effected By Decision.

BOARD APPROVES DOUBTFUL ITEMS

New Rate Is Sufficient To Bring In Over $7,000,000.

Nebraska's tax levy for state governmental purposes this year will be 2.34 mills, a slight reduction from the 2.40 mills assessed in 1929. That rate was fixed by the state board of equalization during the noon hour Saturday. It is sufficient to take care of all items in the biennial budget bill, including those which the state Supreme court recently held to be valid and effective notwithstanding that Governor Weaver vetoed them.

At the last moment the board abandoned its plan of cutting the levy to 2.30 mills by leaving out these four appropriation items:

Manual training school building and landscaping of grounds at Omaha school for deaf, $58,000.

Equipment for university medical college hospital, Omaha, $40,000.

Reservoir, $9,000, and pump, $3,000 at penitentiary, Lincoln; total, $12,000.

Construction of building at Bridgeport to house equipment and records of state irrigation bureau, $10,000.

Attorney General Sorensen had furnished the board an opinion advising it that these four items did not come under the Supreme court's ruling, because they had not been first submitted to the governor as specific budget requests but were inserted in the general appropriation bill as news items by the legislature.

Draws a Distinction.

The Supreme court found that after the legislature, by three-fifths vote of each branch, has passed the

REPAIR WORK ON R-100 IS BEGUN

Lakehurst Hangar Facilities Offered to Officers Of Dirigible.

ST. HUBERT AIRPORT, Que., Aug. 2—(AP)—The work of repairing the damaged fin of the British dirigible R-100, from which the fabric was torn loose in her voyage from Cardington, Eng., to St Hubert, was well under way today

As the repairs proceeded it seemed certain that they would be completed here without recourse to United States naval airship facilities at Lakehurst, N. J.

A new panel had been measured and was ready for lacing into place. After it is placed the really dangerous part of the work will begin, that of "doping" the new fabric.

Dangerous Task.

Unable to reach the fin by ladders, as would be possible in a hangar, two men will be swung from the top of the dirigible in bo's'ns chairs, one on either side, and from this improvised stage, 200 feet

LATE CORN CAN WITHSTAND HEAT

Two Weeks More Would Not Be Fatal To The Crop.

Would Produce 60 Per Cent Unless Hot Winds Come.

Late corn can stand two weeks more of hot weather unless hot winds become prevalent and still produce better than a 60 per cent crop in the opinion of county farmers as expressed Saturday.

Admitting that pessimism is growing, three farmers in different sections of the county, when interviewed by phone Saturday, expressed optimism for the corn possibilities in the county yet this year.

Charles J. Warner, of Waverly, said that the late corn in the northeastern part of the county is still in good shape and would be for two weeks, barring the possibility of extreme hot winds. A rain as late as the middle of August, he estimated would bring the late corn through to a good crop.

Early corn is about half gone now, he said, but could still make a substantial percentage of a normal crop if rain comes within a few days and the winds don't get too hot. He declared that the corn had been more seriously burned other years and still come through.

Not Badly Fired.

Ray Detweiler, in the northwestern part of the county, expressed a similar opinion. He said the corn is not fired as high as last year yet. The inch and a half rain in his area a week and a half ago was a big help, he said, and unless it gets too hot and windy, the crop should recover in good shape.

George M. Bronn of Roca was hopeful over the prospects in the southern part of the county, where rain has been even less than in the northwestern part. Late corn can stand another week or ten days, he believes. Rain in 36 hours would give better than a 60 per cent corn crop in his vicinity, he feels. Early corn has been badly damaged, but can make some crop yet if rain comes. Lancaster county's corn is in worse shape than Johnson county, but not so bad as Gage, he stated.

While farmers are worrying about the possibility of hot winds and anxiously hoping for relief from the drouth, they are finishing up the season's threshing. Threshing of wheat has practically been completed with the county's production expected to average around 20 bushels to the acre, perhaps better. Oats, too, are largely threshed with satisfactory yields.

Good Wheat Yields.

James Doolittle, living eleven miles south of Lincoln on Fourteenth street, reported to Mr. Bronn Saturday that he had one wheat acreage which produced 52

MEARS FINISHES FIRST LEG OF WORLD FLIGHT

TRYING TO BETTER ZEPPELIN'S RECORD

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Aug. 2—(INS)—Successfully completing the first leg of their projected record-breaking flight around the world, John Henry Mears and Henry J. Brown arrived at 4:25 p. m., local time, today.

Brown, the pilot, brought the plane, christened "City of New York," down on the Harbor Grace landing field without difficulty. The landing was made at 2:55 p. m., eastern daylight saving time.

Mears and Brown, who are attempting to encircle the world in less than twenty days and thus shatter the record now held by the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, covered the 1,200 miles from Roosevelt field, Long Island, to Harbor Grace in 8 hours, 15 minutes. They left the Long Island field at 6:40 a. m., eastern daylight time today.

An Uneventful Trip.

The long journey up the New England coast and across the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Newfoundland was virtually without incident.

Mears and Brown are making the flight in a speedy Lockheed Vega Wasp plane. The airmen originally had allowed nine hours for the trip to Harbor Grace, but the speed of the plane exceeded their own expectations.

They planned to refuel the craft immediately and take off as soon as possible across the Atlantic ocean to Baldonnel aerdrome, near Dublin.

ASSEMBLY NAMES THREE TO BOARD

W. C. Fawell, W. Edgar Gates, W. M. Bryant Are Elected.

Epworth Conference To Bar Park Mortgage In Future.

Rev. W. C. Fawell, W. Edgar Gates and W. M. Bryant, all of Lincoln, were elected to three-year terms on the board of control of the Nebraska Epworth assembly at the twenty-second annual delegated convention Saturday morning on the Epworth lake park grounds. The three will be installed following confirmation of the election by the general conference of the Nebraska Methodist church which which meets in September.

Other nominees were Rev. W. C. Kelly, Cozad; Rev. R. H. Chenoweth, Martel, and Rev. Carroll Prouty and O. H. Bimson, both of Lincoln.

Goal Is Seen.

With thirty-three pledges of $200 each toward liquidation of the $10,000 mortgage remaining on the park grounds, the goal of fifty pledges which will wipe out the debt appeared nearer Saturday morning. It is expected that the number will be obtained when the assembly closes its thirty-fourth annual session Sunday night.

In several instances groups of people joined in one pledge. It was announced that several contributions to the assembly, several as high as $500, would be donated if the goal is reached.

Abolish Complimentary Tickets.

About 150 delegates attended the business meeting. Following a lengthy discussion it was voted to abolish all complimentary tickets to ministers, except those for retired ministers or their widows.

Another law was enacted to the effect that when the present indebtedness is removed from the park grounds, no mortgage can be made on the grounds or equipment for current expenses of any kind.

Rev. Louis H. Kaub, Bayard, closed his sermon series on "Beliefs Basic in Christian Life and Education" with a discussion of "Belief in the Christian Religion" during the religious education period Saturday morning.

Rev. Kaub's sermon preceded the business session. Following the meeting Rev. Roy N. Spooner, pastor of Scottsbluff Methodist church, told of the value of Christian principles in life. His sermon concluded the daily morning worship periods.

"National Legislation and Moral Tendencies" will be the subject of an address by Congressman Lester J. Dickinson of Iowa before the assembly Saturday night. The address will begin at 8:30 o'clock, preceded by a thirty-minute concert by the Cordova Concertiers, featuring Spanish musical selections, and a thirty-minute period of assembly singing.

'Little Eva' Duncan Weds Nils Asther

Couple Engaged in 1927; Romance on Rocks in '28; Reannounced.

RENO, Nevada, Aug. 2—(AP)—Vivian Duncan, Little Eva of the Duncan sisters stage team, and Nils Asther, Swedish film star, were honeymooning today, their interrupted romance of three years culminating in their marriage here yesterday.

Soon after the wedding in the Washoe county District court house they left by automobile for an unannounced destination, reported, however, to be Lake Tahoe.

Attempts to keep the wedding secret failed. A license record in the county clerk's office showed both gave ages of "over 21." Neither had been married before.

Half an hour after the ceremony the wedding party of five, including Rosetta Duncan, the bride's sister, and another man and woman was located in an automobile parked on a Reno street. While Vivian was denying her identity, Asther emerged from a postoffice and expressed indignation at being questioned.

Resents Questioning.

"This is a private affair and we don't want any publicity," he said.

CENTRAL FIGURE IN LINGLE INQUIRY IS ASSASSINATED

"Job" Started in Heart of Chicago's Loop Several Weeks Ago Is Finished In Dance Hall of Hotel Near Delafield, Wis., When Five Men Shoot Down a "Bugs" Moran Lieutenant—Charged By Some With Having Ordered Killing of Tribune Reporter.

WAUUKESHA, Wis., Aug. 2—(AP)—James Kelly, fingerprint expert of the Chicago police department, this afternoon definitely identified the body of the man slain by gangsters in a Delafield roadhouse as that of Jack Zuta, alleged payoff man from the Moran-Aiello gang of Chicago.

DELAFIELD, Wis., Aug. 2—(AP)—Five men "finished a job" started in the heart of Chicago's loop several weeks ago when a man identified as Jack Zuta, a "Bugs" Moran gang leader, was shot down last night in the dance hall of the Lakeview hotel, near here, as he was putting nickels into an electric phonograph.

Zuta, identified by Sheriff Phil Herbrand of Waukesha county through photographs, had been charged by some as the man who ordered Jake Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, slain. The attempt to "get" Zuta in Chicago's loop occurred on State street several weeks tgo after he had been questioned at the detective bureau rgarding the Lingle slaying. He and several cronies in an automobile driven by a police lieutenant were fired on, but he escaped uninjured.

At that time Zuta expressed fear for his life and would not leave the detective bureau until given a police escort.

Zuta had checked out of the Homestead hotel in Delafield Thursday and announced he and his companion were going to Chicago. Instead he registered at the Lakeview hotel here as J. H. Goodman, Aurora, Ill.

He was apparently about ready to leave the little hotel on the shore of Lake Nemahbin, county officers said. They found his car loaded

Wheat Receipts At Omaha Break Record

Present Week Heaviest One In History of Omaha Grain Exchange With 4,357 Carloads.

OMAHA, Aug. 2—(AP)—A new record for wheat receipts on the Omaha grain exchange was set this week, when 4,357 cars of wheat were received here, President Butler announced today.

Today's receipts were 445 cars, compared with 488 cars on the same day last year.

For the month of July, the Burlington and Union Pacific railroads set all-time records for loadings in Nebraska. Tabulation today showed that the Burlington loaded 13,783 cars during the month, a gain of 2,440 cars over July, 1929. The loadings of the Union Pacific and St. Joseph & Grand Island totaled 13,960 cars, compared with 9,747 cars last year.

TO REORGANIZE NORFOLK BANK

Believed That Plans Submitted Will Meet Approval.

NORFOLK, Neb., Aug. 2—(AP)—Reorganization of the Nebraska State bank here, one of the largest state banks in Nebraska, today was believed assured. At a mass meeting last night, depositors of the bank voted in favor of accepting a 20 per cent "write-off" of deposits and also in favor of an agreement to withdraw not more than 10 per cent of the present deposits in any one month.

A committee which went over the assets of the institution recommended a plan for the elimination of items listed at $440,000. This will be covered by $85,000 in double liability, unearned dividends returned and donations by bank directors, $130,000 new capital and surplus to be raised and about $225,000 represented by the depositors' "write-off."

At the meeting, a committee composed of John Isaacson, Otto Beckenhauer, Gene Huse, Frank Sprangenberg, Ralph Finley, W. J. Flint and T. T. Hutchinson, was named to handle the reorganization plans and to act as trustee of the assets.

It was announced today that the depositors are signing the agreement and the belief was expressed that the required 85 per cent will have signed within a few days. W. D. Hartwell, special agent of the banking department, said the proposed plan would make the bank one of the strongest in the state.

BIG RESERVE IS HELD BY BANKS

That In Cash Amounted To $35,400,000 On June 30.

Deposits and Loans Show Decrease From Last Report.

Six hundred and two state banks of Nebraska had on hand June 30, last, a total cash reserve of 22 per cent, amounting to over $35,400,000, and a further reserve of 18 per cent, or above $29,000,000, in bonds and other approved and readily marketable securities, as shown by their reports of that date to State Bank Commissioner Woods.

This made a total reserve of 40 per cent against nearly $156,000,000 of deposits carried in the banks. Their combined capital stock, surplus, undivided profits, and special reserves for contingencies on the date mentioned were in excess of $24,000,000. Loans and discounts aggregated nearly $110,000,000.

Compared with the last previous report for March 31, a decrease of 14½ million dollars in deposits and $10,000,000 in loans appears on the collective statment. Part of this was a seasonal decline and part due to the fact that the number of banks

As Rogers Sees It

BEVERLY HILLS, Aug. 2 — Kinder thought Mr. Coolidge would have to get around to criticism. It's fine to just keep saying everything is great, but about the only way to prove it to people is for things to be great. Even our old family doctor can't fool us. We are the one that's got the stomach and we know whether it's hurting or not. So Calvin hopped on the farm board in yesterday's "sermonette." The poor farmer can't get a break. Just when it looked like he would be able to sell his land for real golf courses, somebody invents golf that you can play in the kitchen sink.

EAST KENTUCKY GOES TO POLLS

No Party Contests In First Five Districts; Begin Count Monday.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 2—(AP)—Voters in the eastern half of Kentucky went to the polls today to select congressional nominees in six districts, but the result will not be known until Monday, and possibly later.

Under the new election machinery, to be used for the first time today, a delay of at least one day is required before the counting of ballots. The padlocked ballot boxes will be escorted to the office of the county clerk in each county, and will stand there under guard until Monday morning, when the counting of votes will begin.

No Party Conflict.

A comparatively quiet primary is anticipated. Because of no party opposition for nominations, there will be no primaries in the first five districts. Democratc primaries will be held in the seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh districts and republican primaries in the sixth, seventh, tenth and eleventh.

Judge M. M. Logan of Bowling Green and Ben Williamson, Ashland, are the democratic nominees for the long and short terms in the senate, respectively. Senator John M. Robsion, Barbourville, is the republican nominee for both long and short terms, to succeed himself. They are all without opposition in their parties, as are the candidates for judge of the court of appeals for the third appelate district. Judge W. F. Grigsby, Springfield, is the republican candidate to succeed himself on the appelate bench, and Basil Richardson, Glasgow, is the democratic choice.

Airmen Continue Endurance Grind

LAMBERT-ST. LOUIS FIELD, Aug. 2—(I. N. S.)—Having passed the half-way mark in their effort to surpass the endurance flight record of 553 hours set by the Hunter brothers of Sparta, Ill., Dale "Red" Jackson and Forrest O'Brine piloted the "Greater St. Louis" into the 289th hour and thirteenth day of continuous flight at 7:11 a. m. today.

The two pilots, who set the world mark of 420 hours later broken by the Hunter brothers, seem in excellent spirits and hope to remain in the air until August 21 to hang up a record of 720 hours.

Pass 300-Hour Mark.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Aug. 2—(I. N. S.)— Close to their 300th hour in the air, Bob Black and Louis Reichers today continued their assault on the Hunters brothers' air endurance grind record of 553 hours. The fliers reached their 300th hour at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

For a time it was believed the big ship might have to be taken to the United States naval hangar at Lakehurst, where expert technicians and machinery and material would make the operation a comparatively simple one.

Officers of the R-100 decided they could repair the damage at the mast here.

MAIDENS VIE FOR BEAUTY TITLE AT PAGEANT IN TEXAS

GALVESTON, Tex., Aug. 2—(AP)—Feminine beauty, representative of Magyar, Teuton, Russian, Gaul, American seashore and prairie dwellers and many points between, was on exhibit here today as a score of entrants vied for the title "beauty queen of the universe" in the international pageant of pulchritude.

Seven European countries and many states were represented by girls whose foregathering here had caused the assembling of thousands to witness the pageantry.

The program called for an official welcome to the entrants at a Kiwanis luncheon followed by their appearance in sport costumes or afternoon frocks on floats in a parade.

Stands to seat 25,000 were constructed for the peageant.

and Seattle, John Henry Mears and Henry J. Brown took off at 5:40 a. m. (E. S. T.) today in their plane the City of New York. Their first scheduled stop was Harbor Grace, N. F..

They are seeking the round-the-by way of Dublin, Berlin, Moscow world record, which Mears has twice held, only to see it broken, and which was set at the present figure—21 days, 8 hours and 26 minutes—by the Graf Zeppelin last summer. Mears and Brown hope to make the trip in less than twenty days, perhaps in fifteen with good weather.

Has Good Takeoff.

With a red, newly risen sun at his back, Brown sent the little red and silver monoplane winging down the long trans-Atlantic runway through the early morning mists and pulled her aloft a good thousand feet short of "Death Gully," where Fonck's first trans-Atlantic attempt ended in disaster.

He circled the field once, gaining altitude, and then pointed the plane's nose for Harbor Grace.

Ideal weather waited Mears and Brown on their nine hour, 1,175-mile journey, and ahead across the Atlantic conditions appeared to be favorable for the next forty-eight hours. They expect to hop off from Harbor Grace tomorrow morning for Baldonnel airdrome near Dublin, 1,800 miles away. It will be their longest overwater hop on the circumnavigation of the globe.

Family Says Goodbye.

Brown's wife, his sister, Mary, of Chicago, and Mr. Mears' daughter, Elizabeth, were at the field to see them off.

"Goodbye, lady," Brown said as he kissed his wife and patted her shoulder. Then he kissed his sister and climbed into the cockpit.

Miss Mears' leavetaking from her father was more extended, but none of the women showed emotional strain. Not until the City of New York was fading into the distance did Mrs. Brown give way, and then only for a moment.

Have Radio Set.

Miss Mears is the only near relative of the head of the expedition, but back in Berea, O., were two small Browns, Henry James, jr., 6 months old, and Harriet Virginia, aged 3. Harriet told her dad goodbye over the long distance telephone just before she went to sleep last night.

The fliers have a short wave radio set, operating on 34½ meters and 8,650 kilocycles, with which they hope to keep in touch with the world. The call letter is KHIMN. Mears, who has been studying telegraphy, will handle the key.

A large gas tank separates Mears in his cabin from the pilot's cockpit, the two compartments being connected by a speaking tube.

bushels to the care. Wheat in the Roca area will average about 20 bushels and oats from 40 to 70, Mr. Bronn says.

Senator Warner got 24 bushels of spring wheat to the acre from 290 acres, which he finished combining recently. His oats made 52 bushels. This was about the average for that section of the county, he believes.

Ray Detweiler had a 50½ acre field of oats which yielded 75 bushels to the acre, he reported to the Star Saturday noon. Oats in his community have run around 30 to 60 bushels and in some cases even up to 30 bushels.

ZUTA, GANGSTER LEADER IS SLAIN

with what they assumed were gangland liquor accounts, in which the figures were large and the notations mysterious.

Five men pulled up to the hotel in two cars bearing Illinois licenses. They walked to the doorway of the dance hall-barroom and leaned against the door casing. One advanced to the bar.

Rutzen laughed. The man fired into the floor.

In the hush this brought over the small hall, the men stalked toward the lone man at the phonograph. Nearing him, they opened fire with revolvers and a machine gun.

Stroll From Place.

He crumpled and fell. The gangsters wheeled and, staying in something of an armed circle, literally strolled from the place.

It was more than a minute, patrons present guessed, before they heard two cars started outside. Residents of the summer resort caught one of the numbers. It was traced today and officials found the license identical with plates stolen from a Chicago taxicab several days ago.

Identification attempts were immediately started. From the initials "S. V." in the dead man's clothing he was first thought to be Solly Vision, another henchman of the gang with which Zuta was identified.

Typewritten "pay-off" records in his pockets bore such notations as:

"To D.., $4,000.

"To George, $4,000.

"Who, $3,221.14.

"Solly, $300.

"Total cash, $26,121.20." It revealed that a split in proceeds had been made July 23.

No One Else Molested.

Two men of the gang totalling seven men held several night bathers and other resorters away from the scene of the shooting.

No attempt was made to molest others in the hotel or dance room. John Neuman, St. John's military academy student, who was in the dance hall with several other young persons, was standing near Zuta when the "army" entered.

One member of the fivesome snapped: "Out of the way, kid," at him as they started firing. He dropped to the floor and the bullets passed over him.

Chicago detectives were said by Sheriff Herbrand to have been following Zuta in Wisconsin for several days. He expected them to appear today to positively identify the slain gangster.

Six or seven bullets penetrated the body, an autopsy revealed.

BIG SURPLUS IN STATE TREASURY

General Fund Contains About Two and Half Million Dollars.

Nearly two and one-half million dollars was still on hand in the state general fund at the close of business for July, the monthly report of State Treasurer Stebbins shows, notwithstanding that expenditures from that fund outran the receipts during the month by nearly a quarter of a million.

The fund contained $2,470,186 on the last day of July, compared with $2,816,987 at the beginning of the month. A year ago on July 31 the amount in the general fund was $1,823,261, so that this year it is about $647,000 better off now than it was at the corresponding time in 1929.

Total cash balances for all funds, however, are less now than either a month ago or a year ago. The aggregate on July 31 was $6,635,-918; on June 30, it was $7,532,903; and on July 31 a year ago, $6,679,-187.

Heavy drafts were made on the gasoline tax fund during July, reducing it from $1,856,951 to $1,513,-687. The temporary school fund was also depleted from $548,827 to $183,352, on account of the semi-annual apportionment.

General fund receipts for the month were $495,057 and expenditures $841,858.

Payments totalling $1,131,922 were made from the gasoline tax fund, while $788,658 came into it.

CHEYENNE MAN SUFFERS CUT IN FRAY AT WAVERLY

One man is in the Lincoln General hospital and another is in the county jail as a result of a fight in the Waverly stockyards late Friday afternoon.

Fred Grimes, 51, Cheyenne, Wyo., is in the hospital recovering from a knife cut which reached from the side of his face across his throat. Six stitches were taken by Dr. A. L. Emery of Waverly to sew up the wound. Hospital attaches said early Saturday morning that he was in no danger.

Joe Kane, 60, a floater who had been with Grimes told County Attorney Towle Friday night that Grimes threatened to mash his face into the ground where he was lying at the stockyards. Kane said that inself-defense he leaped to his feet and used his pocket knife. Grimes refused to discuss the affair with the county attorney, Mr. Towle said.

The two men were arrested by Marshal McDougal of Waverly and Ira Youngberg, special deputy sheriff. Deputy Sheriffs Davis and Hughart brought the men here from Waverly.

"LITTLE EVA" DUNCAN WEDS NILS ASTHER

The marriage was the culmination of a romance begun three years ago when they met in New York. Miss Duncan announced their engagement in 1927, but in 1928 it was terminated by mutual consent only to be reannounced in September the following year. Several tentative dates had been set for the wedding, followed by postponements.

'BRIGHTEST BOY' BACK ON JOB AS BANK MESSENGER

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 2—(AP)—After an eventful day in the limelight of an appreciative metropolis which hailed him as the newly chosen protege of Thomas A. Edison, Arthur O. Williams, serious, quiet and unassuming, came home to his humble job as messenger boy at the Rhode Island Hospital Trust company.

In market contrast to yesterday's colorful activities, when, after receiving the coveted award from the electrical wizard, Williams had o parry all day long the questions of a horde of inquisitive eporters and to give a talk on the radio, the 17-year-old East Providence youth stood almost unnoticed publicly this morning in his messenger boy's uniform in the huge hall of the bank, running errands now and then for the various members of the department.

But while young freckle-faced Williams, seemed to enjoy the comparative quiet of his surroundings, the officials and employes of the bank beamed on him in delight as they watched him.

Winning the Edison scholarship will make no difference in his immediate plans, Arthur said, and he intends to continue working as a messenger boy at the bank through August.

Senator Norris filed as a candidate for the republican nomination to succeed himself in the United States senate. On July 2, 1930, George W. Norris, an employe of the Skaggs chain store at Broken Bow, mailed his filing from said city, which filing reached the office of the secretary of state on the morning of July 5. Friends of United States Senator Norris protested this filing of George W. Norris, of Broken Bow, now known as Norris No. 2, on the ground that his filing had reached the office of the secretary of state too late. A hearing was had on this protest before the secretary of state. The protest was overruled and an appeal was taken to Chief Justice Goss of the Supreme court of Nebraska.

"The hearing before Chief Justice Goss began at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, July 18. At 6 o'clock that afternoon the entire hearing was over, with the exception that Mr. Matson was permitted ten minutes to complete his argument at 7:30 that evening, to which hour Chief Justice Goss had adjourned the hearing. John P. Breen, of Omaha, representing United States Senator George W. Norris, C. A. Sorensen, the attorney general, appearing as a friend of the court, and W. E. Shuman, of North Platte, attorney for George W. Norris No. 2 of Broken Bow, had made their arguments during the afternoon.

How Document Reached Him.

"About 7 o'clock that evening, while I was at dinner in the Lindell hotel, I was called to the telephone. The speaker said that he was Paul Johnson, of Broken Bow, and that he wanted to see me. I asked him where he was and he said 'I am quite a way out.' I told him I wanted to be at the hearing in the Supreme court room at 7:30, Chief Justice Goss had announced that the hearing would be completed at that time and a decision was expected. Johnson insisted that I wait for him at the hotel, as he wanted to see me before I went to the Supreme court hearing. So I told him I would wait for him as long as I possibly could.

"Johnson met me at the hotel about 7:15 or 7:20. He appeared extremely agitated, nervous and excited. He said that he had been driving for several days attempting to locate Norris No. 2 and get his consent to file his withdrawal. He then stated that he had found young Norris and that he, Norris, had given him permission to file his withdrawal. I said to Johnson: 'Why don't you file his withdrawal with the secretary of state?' He replied: 'I want to clean up this dirty mess, and I don't want to have any more to do with it myself than is absolutely necessary' Johnson said further: There is only one condition attached to the filing of this withdrawal and that is that nothing derogatory shall be said about this young Norris of Broken Bow.' I told him that Senator Norris was not the kind of man who would stoop to defame any man. I knew that Senator Norris regarded Norris No. 2 as simply a tool in the hands of certain designing politicians. Johnson then handed me the withdrawal, which was dated July 2, 1930, which showed that it had been executed at the same time that he made his filing for the office of United States senator.

Reason For Withdrawal.

"Let us see what this George W. Norris, of Broken Bow has to say about it himself. Why did he sign this withdrawal, for what purpose? He is quoted in the press of July 23, 1930, as saying:

"'It looked at that time like the republicans would be able to get some of the other candidates out of the race and center on one to oppose Senator Norris in the primaries. I thought at that time that McKelvie would get in the race. If that had happened and the republican party had suggested that I also withdraw as a means of bringing about Senator Norris' defeat, I wanted to be ready. I would have got out of the race then.'

"This proves clearly that Norris No. 2 understood that he was signing his withdrawal in the interest of McKelvie.

"When Johnson came to me and handed me this withdrawal, there was dount in my mind as to whether I should take it or not. From the argument I had heard both before the secretary of state and before Chief Justice Goss, I was confident that the law would require the exclusion from the ballot of Norris No. 2. I told Johnson that the withdrawal was of no value; that the hearing was on before Chief Justice Goss; that the arguments were over and that we expected a decision momentarily. However, when he handed me the withdrawal I took it and put it in my pocket.

"When I got to the Supreme court room, I motioned to Attorney General Sorensen to come out. When he came out, I showed him the withdrawal which Johnson had just given me a few minutes before. Mr. Sorensen said that the withdrawal was of no value; that it came too late. Chief Justice Goss was at that very minute delivering his opinion to the effect that Norris No. 2 had no right on the ballot. I went to Broken Bow that night and handed the withdrawal back to Johnson immediately upon my arrival in that city the next morning.

"There are a few things that need to be remembered about this whole matter:

Senator's Friends In the Clear.

"1. Attorney General Sorensen knew nothing about this withdrawal until Chief Justice Goss was making his decision and, therefore, the statement that Mr. Sorensen made his defense of Senator Norris knowing that I had the withdrawal of young Norris of Broken Bow in my possession at the time is utterly false.

"2 I did not receive this withdrawal from Mr. Johnson in time so that it was possible for me to have reached the court with it until after all the argument had been made in the case and Chief Justice Goss had commenced delivering his opinion. So that the charge that I could have had this withdrawal filed and have avoided a hearing before Chief Justice Goss is utterly false.

"3. I do not know what prompted Norris No. 2 to give his consent to Johnson to file this withdrawal, but I do know that two days prior to this time the press had carried a story to the effect that the Nye senatorial investigating committee was coming to Nebraska and that Mr. Healy, a federal agent for the committee, had been in Broken Bow for two days and in the state for over a week. I am convinced that fear of exposure is what prompted Norris No. 2 to withdraw.

"4. I do not believe that any intelligent person thinks that Senator Norris, Mr. Sorensen, I or any friend of Senator Norris had anything whatever to do, directly or indirectly, with the filing of Norris No. 2 or with securing his withdrawal. On the contrary, we had employed one of the outstanding members of the Nebraska bar, John P. Breen, of Omaha, to bring about the removal of Norris No. 2 from the ballot and Norris No. 2, of Broken Bow, was represented by Mr. W. E. Shuman, of North Platte.

"To Senator Norris and his friends the contest was a most serious one indeed. Up to the time of the decision of Chief Justice Goss we were greatly disturbed and alarmed over the situation and I had to my pocket the withdrawal of Senator Norris, as announced days before in the public press, which withdrawal I was under instruction from Senator Norris to file in case the decision of Chief Justice Goss was against us."

Since Z. G. Clevenger took charge of athletics at Indiana university a $300,000 field house and a $250,000 stadium have been built.

HEAT STRIKES A FRESH BLOW AT MIDDLEWEST

NO GENERAL RAINS IN SIGHT

Streams and Wells Drying Up; Pastures Turn to Dead Brown.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2—(AP)—More hot weather is boiling the small remaining moisture from middle and northwestern farm lands.

The cities, too, burn. Their suffering is physical. On the farms it has been more than that, with the sun steadily turning to dross the potential gold of the grain fields.

Wells have run dry. Pastures have changed, like chameleons, from green to dead brown. Streams have become feeble rivulets. Miles of sandbars along either shore tell how much the Mississippi has shrunk.

The government forecaster today prophecied local showers over part of the territory, but nothing definite to cheer the farmers, faced with the tragedy of seeing their labors of months burned away by drouth.

106 at Mitchell, S. D.

Mitchell, S. D., with a 106 temperature, was the hottest place on the American continent yesterday, by the government readings, but nearly every weather bureau in the middlewest reported temperatures well in the nineties.

In the area made up of lower Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Wisconsin, precipitation has been 21 per cent below the normal for the first seven months of the year. Only 35 per cent of the normal rainfall occurred in the territory in July.

budget bill no item therein which has been raised by the legislature can be vetoed by the governor. A number of such items aggregating $470,500 to come out of tax funds were vetoed by Governor Weaver in the appropriation measure of 1929 for state departments, institutions, and agencies.

The four particular items referred to, aggregating $120,000, were among these. Attorney General Sorensen held that they were in a different class from the others, because no items for such purposes were in the original budget, and that the veto as applied to them should stand.

University Presents Case.

It developed, however, that the state university regents had requested a larger sum for maintenance than Governor Weaver allowed in his budget, and Dean H. H. Foster of the university law college told the board of equalization Friday that the Omaha hospital equipment was among the things the request covered, although it was not specified by itself.

The records also disclosed that the Omaha school for deaf and the board of control had asked for an "industrial building," which Governor Weaver struck out, and that this was the same as the manual training building later added by the legislature as an amendment to the appropriation bill.

For three reasons, and in view of the fact that the saving on the other two items would be very small and would make no difference in the amount of the levy, the board decided to let the tall go with the hide.

Basis of Levy Outlined.

The following statement, prepared by State Tax Commissioner Scott, was adopted by the board as its official record in making the levy:

Whereas, from the auditor's report it appears that there was appropriated to be paid out of the general fund the sum of $15,053,785.80 one-half of which should be met for the current year, which is $7,-526,892.90, and

Whereas, the Supreme court of Nebraska has decided that the sum of $470,500 should be provided for in addition to the above, and

Whereas, the Supreme court of Nebraska has decided the sum of $260,111.34 appropriated for the reimbursement of depositors in failed banks, which sum was levied by this board, in 1929 is not a valid appropriation, making a net increase of $210,388.64 to be levied in addition making the total amount to be raised for the current year $7,737,281.54.

To meet which it is estimated there will be available miscellaneous collections for the general fund not otherwise appropriated, $1,143,339.92.

State's share (one-sixth) of general fund collections to be derived from intangible taxes, $219,823.71.

Deducting these last two items from the foregoing total leaves to be raised from regular taxation the sum of $6,375,117.93.

Which amount is increased 3% in accordance with house roll 189, session laws of 1927, $191,253.53.

Leaving to be raised from the 1930 general fund levy, $6,566,371.46.

The assessed value of the tangible property of the state as of record in the office of the state tax commissioner is $3,098,-656,261.

A levy of 2.12 mills will raise $6,567,-877.15.

The capitol fund levy as fixed by law is .22 of one mill and on the assessed valuation of the state will raise $681,572.15.

Therefore, be it resolved, that the levies for 1930, be as follows:

General fund	2.12 mills	$6,567,877.15
Capitol fund	.22 mills	681,572.15

180 Young Musicians March Through The Downtown Section.

One hundred and eighty members of the Lincoln civic boys' band marched through downtown streets early Saturday morning in their first public parade, making stops at the city hall and the newspaper offices. Dressed in white duck trousers, white shirts, black bow ties and white sailor caps, their instruments shining in the early morning sunlight the group marched ten abreast down the principal streets between lines of appreciative citizens.

Starting from the Stuart theater the band marched west on P street to Ninth where they played a number for the employes of the Journal. Marching south on Ninth to O they stopped in front of the city hall and played a selection.

Leaving the city hall the band marched down O street to Eleventh then to M street stopping in front of The Star office to play "The University of Maine Stein Song." Several hundred people lined the sidewalks at Twelfth and M to hear the concert.

The band then proceeded east to Thirteenth street and north to the Stuart theater where they were entertained at a special theater party arranged weekly for Lincoln children.

The Saturday morning parade was the culmination of practice and drill of several weeks at Antelope park. Friday evening the rehearsal was conducted before several hundred people who lined the drill field at the park.

EAST KENTUCKY GOES TO POLLS

No Party Contests In First Five Districts; Begin Count Monday.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 2—(AP)—Voters in the eastern half of Kentucky went to the polls today to select congressional nominees in six districts, but the result will not be known until Monday, and possibly later.

Under the new election machinery, to be used for the first time today, a delay of at least one day is required before the counting of ballots. The padlocked ballot boxes will be escorted to the office of the county clerk in each county, and will stand there under guard until Monday morning, when the counting of votes will begin.

No Party Conflict.

A comparatively quiet primary is anticipated. Because of no party opposition for nominations, there will be no primaries in the first five districts. Democratc primaries will be held in the seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh districts and republican primaries in the sixth, seventh, tenth and eleventh.

Judge M. M. Logan of Bowling Green and Ben Williamson, Ashland, are the democratic nominees for the long and short terms in the senate, respectively. Senator John M. Robsion, Barbourville, is the republican nominee for both long and short terms, to succeed himself. They are all without opposition in their parties, as are the candidates for judge of the court of appeals for the third appelate district. Judge W. F. Grigsby, Springfield, is the republican candidate to succeed himself on the appelate bench, and Basil Richardson, Glasgow, is the democratic choice.

MAIDENS VIE FOR BEAUTY TITLE AT PAGEANT IN TEXAS

GALVESTON, Tex., Aug. 2—(AP)—Feminine beauty, representative of Magyar, Teuton, Russian, Gaul, American seashore and prairie dwellers and many points between, was on exhibit here today as a score of entrants vied for the title "beauty queen of the universe" in the international pageant of pulchritude.

Seven European countries and many states were represented by girls whose foregathering here had caused the assembling of thousands to witness the pageantry.

The program called for an official welcome to the entrants at a Kiwanis luncheon followed by their appearance in sport costumes or afternoon frocks on floats in a parade.

Stands to seat 25,000 were constructed for the peageant.

and Seattle, John Henry Mears and Henry J. Brown took off at 5:40 a. m. (E. S. T.) today in their plane the City of New York. Their first scheduled stop was Harbor Grace, N. F..

They are seeking the round-the-by way of Dublin, Berlin, Moscow world record, which Mears has twice held, only to see it broken, and which was set at the present figure—21 days, 8 hours and 26 minutes—by the Graf Zeppelin last summer. Mears and Brown hope to make the trip in less than twenty days, perhaps in fifteen with good weather.

Has Good Takeoff.

With a red, newly risen sun at his back, Brown sent the little red and silver monoplane winging down the long trans-Atlantic runway through the early morning mists and pulled her aloft a good thousand feet short of "Death Gully," where Fonck's first trans-Atlantic attempt ended in disaster.

He circled the field once, gaining altitude, and then pointed the plane's nose for Harbor Grace.

Ideal weather waited Mears and Brown on their nine hour, 1,175-mile journey, and ahead across the Atlantic conditions appeared to be favorable for the next forty-eight hours. They expect to hop off from Harbor Grace tomorrow morning for Baldonnel airdrome near Dublin, 1,800 miles away. It will be their longest overwater hop on the circumnavigation of the globe.

Family Says Goodbye.

Brown's wife, his sister, Mary, of Chicago, and Mr. Mears' daughter, Elizabeth, were at the field to see them off.

"Goodbye, lady," Brown said as he kissed his wife and patted her shoulder. Then he kissed his sister and climbed into the cockpit.

Miss Mears' leavetaking from her father was more extended, but none of the women showed emotional strain. Not until the City of New York was fading into the distance did Mrs. Brown give way, and then only for a moment.

Have Radio Set.

Miss Mears is the only near relative of the head of the expedition, but back in Berea, O., were two small Browns, Henry James, jr., 6 months old, and Harriet Virginia, aged 3. Harriet told her dad goodbye over the long distance telephone just before she went to sleep last night.

The fliers have a short wave radio set, operating on 34½ meters and 8,650 kilocycles, with which they hope to keep in touch with the world. The call letter is KHIMN. Mears, who has been studying telegraphy, will handle the key.

A large gas tank separates Mears in his cabin from the pilot's cockpit, the two compartments being connected by a speaking tube.

bushels to the care. Wheat in the Roca area will average about 20 bushels and oats from 40 to 70, Mr. Bronn says.

Senator Warner got 24 bushels of spring wheat to the acre from 290 acres, which he finished combining recently. His oats made 52 bushels. This was about the average for that section of the county, he believes.

Ray Detweiler had a 50½ acre field of oats which yielded 75 bushels to the acre, he reported to the Star Saturday noon. Oats in his community have run around 30 to 60 bushels and in some cases even up to 30 bushels.

with what they assumed were gangland liquor accounts, in which the figures were large and the notations mysterious.

Five men pulled up to the hotel in two cars bearing Illinois licenses. They walked to the doorway of the dance hall-barroom and leaned against the door casing. One advanced to the bar.

Rutzen laughed. The man fired into the floor.

In the hush this brought over the small hall, the men stalked toward the lone man at the phonograph. Nearing him, they opened fire with revolvers and a machine gun.

Stroll From Place.

He crumpled and fell. The gangsters wheeled and, staying in something of an armed circle, literally strolled from the place.

It was more than a minute, patrons present guessed, before they heard two cars started outside. Residents of the summer resort caught one of the numbers. It was traced today and officials found the license identical with plates stolen from a Chicago taxicab several days ago.

Identification attempts were immediately started. From the initials "S. V." in the dead man's clothing he was first thought to be Solly Vision, another henchman of the gang with which Zuta was identified.

Typewritten "pay-off" records in his pockets bore such notations as:

"To D.., $4,000.

"To George, $4,000.

"Who, $3,221.14.

"Solly, $300.

"Total cash, $26,121.20." It revealed that a split in proceeds had been made July 23.

No One Else Molested.

Two men of the gang totalling seven men held several night bathers and other resorters away from the scene of the shooting.

No attempt was made to molest others in the hotel or dance room. John Neuman, St. John's military academy student, who was in the dance hall with several other young persons, was standing near Zuta when the "army" entered.

One member of the fivesome snapped: "Out of the way, kid," at him as they started firing. He dropped to the floor and the bullets passed over him.

Chicago detectives were said by Sheriff Herbrand to have been following Zuta in Wisconsin for several days. He expected them to appear today to positively identify the slain gangster.

Six or seven bullets penetrated the body, an autopsy revealed.

BIG SURPLUS IN STATE TREASURY

General Fund Contains About Two and Half Million Dollars.

Nearly two and one-half million dollars was still on hand in the state general fund at the close of business for July, the monthly report of State Treasurer Stebbins shows, notwithstanding that expenditures from that fund outran the receipts during the month by nearly a quarter of a million.

The fund contained $2,470,186 on the last day of July, compared with $2,816,987 at the beginning of the month. A year ago on July 31 the amount in the general fund was $1,823,261, so that this year it is about $647,000 better off now than it was at the corresponding time in 1929.

Total cash balances for all funds, however, are less now than either a month ago or a year ago. The aggregate on July 31 was $6,635,-918; on June 30, it was $7,532,903; and on July 31 a year ago, $6,679,-187.

Heavy drafts were made on the gasoline tax fund during July, reducing it from $1,856,951 to $1,513,-687. The temporary school fund was also depleted from $548,827 to $183,352, on account of the semi-annual apportionment.

General fund receipts for the month were $495,057 and expenditures $841,858.

Payments totalling $1,131,922 were made from the gasoline tax fund, while $786,558 came into it.

CHEYENNE MAN SUFFERS CUT IN FRAY AT WAVERLY

One man is in the Lincoln General hospital and another is in the county jail as a result of a fight in the Waverly stockyards late Friday afternoon.

Fred Grimes, 51, Cheyenne, Wyo., is in the hospital recovering from a knife cut which reached from the side of his face across his throat. Six stitches were taken by Dr. A. L. Emery of Waverly to sew up the wound. Hospital attaches said early Saturday morning that he was in no danger.

Joe Kane, 60, a floater who had been with Grimes told County Attorney Towle Friday night that Grimes threatened to mash his face into the ground where he was lying at the stockyards. Kane said that inself-defense he leaped to his feet and used his pocket knife. Grimes refused to discuss the affair with the county attorney, Mr. Towle said.

The two men were arrested by Marshal McDougal of Waverly and Ira Youngberg, special deputy sheriff. Deputy Sheriffs Davis and Hughart brought the men here from Waverly.

The marriage was the culmination of a romance begun three years ago when they met in New York. Miss Duncan announced their engagement in 1927, but in 1928 it was terminated by mutual consent only to be reannounced in September the following year. Several tentative dates had been set for the wedding, followed by postponements.

Miss Duncan recently was released from a Los Angeles hospital where she was treated for a black eye allegedly administered by Rex Lease, motion picture actor, at the Malibu Beach home of Charles Farrell, film star.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 2—(AP)—After an eventful day in the limelight of an appreciative metropolis which hailed him as the newly chosen protege of Thomas A. Edison, Arthur O. Williams, serious, quiet and unassuming, came home to his humble job as messenger boy at the Rhode Island Hospital Trust company.

In market contrast to yesterday's colorful activities, when, after receiving the coveted award from the electrical wizard, Williams had o parry all day long the questions of a horde of inquisitive eporters and to give a talk on the radio, the 17-year-old East Providence youth stood almost unnoticed publicly this morning in his messenger boy's uniform in the huge hall of the bank, running errands now and then for the various members of the department.

But while young freckle-faced Williams, seemed to enjoy the comparative quiet of his surroundings, the officials and employes of the bank beamed on him in delight as they watched him.

Winning the Edison scholarship will make no difference in his immediate plans, Arthur said, and he intends to continue working as a messenger boy at the bank through August.

Senator Norris filed as a candidate for the republican nomination to succeed himself in the United States senate. On July 2, 1930, George W. Norris, an employe of the Skaggs chain store at Broken Bow, mailed his filing from said city, which filing reached the office of the secretary of state on the morning of July 5. Friends of United States Senator Norris protested the filing of George W. Norris, of Broken Bow, now known as Norris No. 2, on the ground that his filing had reached the office of the secretary of state too late. A hearing was had on this protest before the secretary of state. The protest was overruled and an appeal was taken to Chief Justice Goss of the Supreme court of Nebraska.

"The hearing before Chief Justice Goss began at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, July 18. At 6 o'clock that afternoon the entire hearing was over, with the exception that Mr. Matson was permitted ten minutes to complete his argument at 7:30 that evening, to which hour Chief Justice Goss had adjourned the hearing. John P. Breen, of Omaha, representing United States Senator George W. Norris, C. A. Sorensen, the attorney general, appearing as a friend of the court, and W. E. Shuman, of Norfolk, attorney for George W. Norris No. 2 of Broken Bow, had made their arguments during the afternoon.

How Document Reached Him.

"About 7 o'clock that evening, while I was at dinner in the Lindell hotel, I was called to the telephone. The speaker said that he was Paul Johnson, of Broken Bow, and that he wanted to see me. I asked him where he was and he said 'I am quite a way out.' I told him I wanted to be at the hearing in the Supreme court room at 7:30. Chief Justice Goss had announced that the hearing would be completed at that time and a decision was expected. Johnson insisted that I wait for him at the hotel, as he wanted to see me before I went to the Supreme court hearing. So I told him I would wait for him as long as I possibly could.

"Johnson met me at the hotel about 7:15 or 7:20. He appeared extremely agitated, nervous and excited. He said that he had been driving for several days attempting to locate Norris No. 2 and get his consent to file his withdrawal. He then stated that he had found young Norris and that he, Norris, had given him permission to file his withdrawal. I said to Johnson: 'Why don't you file his withdrawal with the secretary of state?' He replied: 'I want to clean up this dirty mess, and I don't want to have any more to do with it myself than is absolutely necessary' Johnson said further: 'There is only one condition attached to the filing of this withdrawal and that is that nothing derogatory shall be said about this young Norris of Broken Bow.' I told him that Senator Norris was not the kind of man who would stoop to defame any man. I knew that Senator Norris regarded Norris No. 2 as simply a tool in the hands of certain designing politicians. Johnson then handed me the withdrawal, which was dated July 2, 1930, which showed that it had been executed at the same time that he made his filing for the office of United States senator.

Reason For Withdrawal.

"Let us see what this George W. Norris, of Broken Bow has to say about it himself. Why did he sign this withdrawal, for what purpose? He is quoted in the press of July 23, 1930, as saying:

"'It looked at that time like the republicans would be able to get some of the other candidates out of the race and center on one to oppose Senator Norris in the primaries. I thought at that time that McKelvie would get in the race. If that had happened and the republican party had suggested that I also withdraw as a means of bringing about Senator Norris' defeat, I wanted to be ready. I would have got out of the race then.'

"This proves clearly that Norris No. 2 understood that he was signing his withdrawal in the interest of McKelvie.

"When Johnson came to me and handed me this withdrawal, there was doubt in my mind as to whether I should take it or not. From the argument I had heard both before the secretary of state and before Chief Justice Goss, I was confident that the law would require the exclusion from the ballot of Norris No. 2. I told Johnson that the withdrawal was of no value; that the hearing was on before Chief Justice Goss; that the arguments were over and that we expected a decision momentarily. However, when he handed me the withdrawal I took it and put it in my pocket.

"When I got to the Supreme court room, I motioned to Attorney General Sorensen to come out. When he came out, I showed him the withdrawal which Johnson had just given me a few minutes before. Mr. Sorensen said that the withdrawal was of no value; that it came too late. Chief Justice Goss was at that very minute delivering his opinion to the effect that Norris No. 2 had no right on the ballot. I went to Broken Bow that night and handed the withdrawal back to Johnson immediately upon my arrival in that city the next morning.

"There are a few things that need to be remembered about this whole matter:

Senator's Friends In the Clear.

"1. Attorney General Sorensen knew nothing about this withdrawal until Chief Justice Goss was making his decision and, therefore, the statement that Mr. Sorensen made in defense of Senator Norris knowing that I had the withdrawal of young Norris of Broken Bow in my possession at the time is utterly false.

"2. I did not receive this withdrawal from Mr. Johnson in time so that it was possible for me to have reached the court with it until after all the argument had been made in the case and Chief Justice Goss had commenced delivering his opinion. So that the charge that I could have had this withdrawal filed and have avoided a hearing before Chief Justice Goss is utterly false.

"3. I do not know what prompted Norris No. 2 to give his consent to Johnson to file this withdrawal, but I do know that two days prior to this time the press had carried a story to the effect that the Nye senatorial investigating committee was coming to Nebraska and that Mr. Healy, a federal agent for the committee, had been in Broken Bow for two days and in the state for over a week. I am convinced that fear of exposure is what prompted Norris No. 2 to withdraw.

"4. I do not believe that any intelligent person thinks that Senator Norris, Mr. Sorensen, I or any friend of Senator Norris had anything whatever to do, directly or indirectly, with the filing of Norris No. 2 or with securing his withdrawal. On the contrary, we had employed one of the outstanding members of the Nebraska bar, John P. Breen, of Omaha, to bring about the removal of Norris No. 2 from the ballot and Norris No. 2, of Broken Bow, was represented by Mr. W. E. Shuman, of North Platte.

"To Senator Norris and his friends the contest was a most serious one indeed. Up to the time of the decision of Chief Justice Goss we were greatly disturbed and alarmed over the situation and I had in my pocket the withdrawal of Senator Norris, as announced days before in the public press, which withdrawal I was under instruction from Senator Norris to file in case the decision of Chief Justice Goss was against us."

Since Z. G. Clevenger took charge of athletics at Indiana university a $300,000 field house and a $250,000 stadium have been built.

HEAT STRIKES A FRESH BLOW AT MIDDLEWEST

NO GENERAL RAINS IN SIGHT

Streams and Wells Drying Up; Pastures Turn to Dead Brown.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2—(AP)—More hot weather is boiling the small remaining moisture from middle and northwestern farm lands.

The cities, too, burn. Their suffering is physical. On the farms it has been more than that, with the sun steadily turning to dross the potential gold of the grain fields.

Wells have run dry. Pastures have changed, like chameleons, from green to dead brown. Streams have become feeble rivulets. Miles of sandbars along either shore tell how much the Mississippi has shrunk.

The government forecaster today prophecied local showers over part of the territory, but nothing definite to cheer the farmers, faced with the tragedy of seeing their labors of months burned away by drouth.

106 at Mitchell, S. D.

Mitchell, S. D., with a 106 temperature, was the hottest place on the American continent yesterday, by the government readings, but nearly every weather bureau in the middlewest reported temperatures well in the nineties.

In the area made up of lower Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Wisconsin, precipitation has been 21 per cent below the normal for the first seven months of the year. Only 35 per cent of the normal rainfall occurred in the territory in July.

budget bill no item therein which has been raised by the legislature can be vetoed by the governor. A number of such items aggregating $470,500 to come out of tax funds were vetoed by Governor Weaver in the appropriation measure of 1929 for state departments, institutions, and agencies.

The four particular items referred to, aggregating $120,000, were among these. Attorney General Sorensen held that they were in a different class from the others, because no items for such purposes were in the original budget, and that the veto as applied to them should stand.

University Presents Case.

It developed, however, that the state university regents had requested a larger sum for maintenance than Governor Weaver allowed in his budget, and Dean H. H. Foster of the university law college told the board of equalization Friday that the Omaha hospital equipment was among the things the request covered, although it was not specified by itself.

The records also disclosed that the Omaha school for deaf and the board of control had asked for an "industrial building," which Governor Weaver struck out, and that this was the same as the manual training building later added by the legislature as an amendment to the

The Dirigible Experiment
Mr. Sloan Cuts Power Rates
England Goes to Germany
Questions. Try Them

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

The R-100 trip proves British determination to rule the new ocean of air and make safe its islands that are real islands no longer It is a lesson to this country, too much given to watchful waiting in aviation

The difficulties of the R-100 drifting with a damaged fin, in a storm that heavier-than-air ships might easily conquer, indicate that the dirigible of light fabric, with power unequal to its difficulties, is only an interesting experiment thus far.

Future Zeppelins, of light metal, strong as steel, obviating danger from lightning, with engines powerful enough and frames rigid enough to defy storms, may compete with heavier-than-air planes

The present dirigible is like a big ocean liner, of feeble construction, equipped with an engine too weak to control itself

Matthew S Sloan, head of New York's Edison Power Co, yesterday filed with the public service commission schedules of lower rates for electric current.

This follows Mr. Sloan's advice to a recent convention of power men to improve business by making power cheaper and its use universal.

Consider the results, if all houses had electric vacuum cleaners, washing machines, fans, cooking stoves, and every farm used electricity to cut wood, grind feed, pump water, milk cows, etc

Coal for power would regain its value, many idle would find work, human efficiency would be increased.

Henry Ford, hearing of the new power charge schedules called at Mr Sloan's office to congratulate him "To increase profits and general prosperity," said Mr Ford, "increase production and cut prices. That is how I succeeded"

That is how all industry, intelligently managed, must win success. If railroads had tried it business might be better, and motor busses, automobiles and motor trucks might not be running much of the railroads' business

Ramsay MacDonald, with his daughter, has gone to Oberammergau and will see the Passion play tomorrow

First British prime minister to visit Germany since the war, he will be well received and entertained at dinner by the premier of Bavaria War hatreds and suspicions are gradually dying, and the results of war are puzzling

Of the three great European nations involved, Germany, beaten is more prosperous than England victorious And France victorious, is infinitely more prosperous than any of the others.

Forty-nine boys, competing in the Edison "most intelligent boy in America test," had before them 34 questions of which they must answer 31.

They were asked to give the value of 10 acres of farming land in a good section of Iowa Not even the governor of Iowa could answer that with certainty.

The boys were asked to tell by what facts they will determine whether they have succeeded or failed, as they lie on their death bed Answers to that question will be interesting

On his death bed a man doesn't look back over his life, praising or blaming himself He is too worn and weary. He asks for a handkerchief, or like Goethe for "more light" his failing eyes making him think the room is dark.

The 34 questions are deep and interesting. The boy reading them might well say to Mr. Edison: "If I could answer your questions, I wouldn't need your scholarship, I'd be too wise already"

Government prohibition forces, for the present, will concentrate on "big violators," ignoring "home brew" and other efforts of citizens to alcoholize themselves. Prohibition may become an agent to prevent bootleggers from making money by their trade, leaving the citizen to supply himself with alcohol as best he can, without interference

Unfortunately the citizen would then poison himself slowly. Nothing is more destructive to a man's interior, barring wood alcohol, than improperly made "home brew."

Ninety per cent of New York's so-called legitimate theaters, in which actors appear in person and talk to each other, are closed Producers learn that the public prefers a good "talkie" to a second-rate legitimate play.

Extortionate prices for seats in the hands of the speculators may have started the trouble.

Great moving picture concerns may be compelled to run the legitimate old-fashioned theaters, even at a loss as laboratories for the training of talent.

The Western Union Co arranges to "speed up" stock ticker machines New machines are installed in New York's brokers' offices Soon they will be in all American cities and Canada

If Wall Street will arrange to speed up higher prices, everything will be prepared for another boom.

Two Big Crowds See Sells Floto Circus Here Friday

Nearly 5,000 persons jammed into the "big tent" Friday night, for the circus was in town. Headlined by a personal appearance of Tom Mix, the Sells Floto shows presented a thorough-going parade of "big time" entertainment at Fifth and A streets A matinee performance was also attended by a packed audience

The movie star and a troupe of cowboys and cowgirls only circled the arena a few times during the main performance, but staged a wild west show following.

Everything was there Amos 'n Andy and their "Fresh Air Taxi Cab" had a terrible time with a balky car that sputtered, exploded ran alone, spouted water, and what not

A far cry from this buffooning the aerial trapeze artists wrought cries of astonishment through their thrilling mid-air changes and somersaults.

On the ground, dainty young ladies tripped lightly to the orchestra's strains, and later the big old elephants obliged with their ideas of the "light fantastic"

Filling out a variety program, were the usual acrobats, trained bears, bareback riders trained horses, women who gaily twirl while holding on only by their teeth and of course, lots of clowns and animals.

German Fliers Preparing For Greenland Hop

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 2—(AP)—With approximately one-third of their over-water route covered, the two young German airmen who are flying from Berlin to the United States cast their eyes today toward Greenland their next goal

The fliers, Wolfram Hirth and Oscar Weller, reached Iceland late yesterday from the Orkney islands, covering the jump in ten minutes less than twelve hours They left the Orkneys at 3:40 a. m (E. S. T.) and came down on an improvised airfield near Kalladarnes, in the Reykjavik district at 7:30 p. m. (E. S. T.)

After the aviators reach Greenland their next hop will be to Canada. They are using a small single-motored monoplane.

FOREST BLAZES RAGE UNCHECKED

Flames In Montana and Idaho Destroy Many Acres of Timber.

MISSOULA, Mont. Aug. 2—(AP)—Fires which have laid waste thousands of acres of western Montana and northern Idaho forests, rage unchecked today despite efforts of hundreds of volunteer fighters aided by airplanes

Reinforcements were being rushed to Trout Creek near the Montana-Idaho boundary where a six-acre fire had defied the efforts of 250 men and spread over some 2,000 acres in twenty-four hours

The Coolwater Creek fire east of Kooskia, Idaho had swept over 1,500 acres of timber as four hundred men attempted to protect an eight-mile front

Airplanes hovered over the leaping flames yesterday carrying observers to mark strategic points for ground forces to make their stands.

TARIFF BILL IS AGAINST FARMER

Norris Says Doesn't Come Within Mile Helping Him.

ALLIANCE, Neb, Aug 2—(AP)—About six hundred gathered here last night to hear Senator George W. Norris flay the activities of monopolies and trusts in trying to control congressional moves. "We must place the farmer on an equality with the manufacturer" he said. "The recent tariff law is obnoxious and does not come within a mile of helping the farmer."

Answering the charge of Stebbins, that he is a "bad republican," Norris said he was not like some partisans who put their party first and the government second. Norris recieved cheers when he emphasized that he wanted to be fair to his fellowmen and had been honest in his attempts to fairly represent the people.

"Stebbins has not told the people what he thinks of farm relief; he has not said whether he is for or against the bill My record on the subject has stood for ten years." Norris declared, and he told of writing the first farm relief bill eight years ago. "I do not want to be senator if I have to submit my conscience to trusts and monopolies I believe in driving monopolistic money changers out of the party"

In answer to critics who asked what he had done for Nebraska, Norris continued, "these critics don't know that Nebraska is in the United States. They said I was crazy to ask for a subsidy for the farmer and they turned around and gave a ship subsidy to millionaires.

"Flood control can be best accomplished by placing reservoirs in tributaries to the Missouri, rather than putting dikes on the Mississippi."

He remarked briefly that George W Norris, Broken Bow grocer, had filed merely to eliminate him.

Hoover Taking Complete Rest Virginia Camp

ORANGE, Va., Aug. 2—(AP)—In an atmosphere of complete holiday from official business, President Hoover rested day at his lodge in the Virginia mountains, with only Mrs. Hoover and a few intimate friends as his companions.

Photographers were permitted to interrupt the camp routine for the first time this year the president having relaxed his rule against pictures to allow the cameramen to make shots of the camp showing the many improvements made since last year.

The party encountered cool weather, in sharp contrast to the heat of last week end, and last night a fire was necessary in the large open fire place of the community hall for the first time since spring

Horses awaited those members of the party who are fond of horseback riding early today for exploration along the secluded bridle paths leading about the crest of the Blue Ridge mountains

The chief executive planned to take his exercise hiking He expects to return to the white house early Monday

PERU, Neb., Aug. 2—Telephone communication as well as electric light and power service in Peru was terminated about 2 o'clock Friday morning by the burning of Ben Patterson's barn back of the Milstead store. The power lines from the city light plant and the cable leading from the telephone exchange passed so near the building they could not be protected.

HOOVER STARTS MOVE TO HELP HOME BUILDING

National Conference Is Called to Study All Phases of Problem.

Hope Improve Financing Conditions to Aid Small Builder.

WASHINGTON, Aug 2—(AP)—Coordinated effort to remove influences which are depriving thousands of Americans of the advantages of home ownership was set in motion today at the direction of President Hoover

Privately financed, and with its studies directed at co-ordinating and stimulating private effort rather than seeking relief through legislation, a national conference on home ownership and building has been called by the president A score of associations representing the majority of the interests touching on the problem were invited to detail their chiefs as members of a planning committee which will make up the conference program.

Bad Finance Conditions.

Mr. Hoover pointed out that financing conditions surrounding home building have been extremely bad and are particularly in need of adjustment. But this, he said would be only one phase of the conference's work.

"Greater comfort and reduction in cost of construction in many parts of the country through improved design the better layout of residential areas are all of first importance," the president said "The expansion and betterment of homes in its bearing upon comfort, increasing standards of living and economic and social stability, is of outstanding importance."

To Study Mortgage Laws.

One legislative angle which the president said needed attention, however, was the matter of mortgage laws of many states which he said should be studied with a view to developing a "more intelligent attitude to the home builder"

Mr. Hoover pointed out that during the past months of depression there has been so acute a shortage of capital for home building that this branch of construction had fallen off greatly, while other forms of credit remained readily available He noted particularly that first mortgages had been affected by competition of bonds and other investments, and that in many cities second mortgages, necessary to many prospective home owners, had risen in rates to the equivalent of 20 and 25 per cent by the time commissions discounts and other charges were figured in

Slowup Hurts Labor.

The president said the building and loan associations have been of great service in home financing but were inadequate to carrying the burden without aid. The curtailment of home building construction, he said, was a notable cause of unemployment in the building trades

Secretary Lamont will head the planning committee and John M Gries, chief of the division of building and housing of the commerce department will be executive secretary. The planning committee itself will set the date for the conference.

Husband Had to Do Her Work

"When my baby was a month old, I took a heavy cold and after that I felt miserable. Could not lift anything. My husband had to help me with the housework. I was so weak I could not do a washing. I do all my own work now and I have told others how much this medicine helped me."—Mrs. Alice Basser, Cadogan, Pennsylvania.

RECEIVER DENIED FOR PATHE FILMS

TRENTON, N. J Aug 2—(AP)—The court of Chancery has overruled an action to have a receiver appointed for the Pathe Exchange, Inc, holding that although the film company has been operated at a loss of approximately $4,566,000 for the last four years it is now "bettering" its affairs

Denying the application of Mitchel Fox, owner of 200 shares of stock, for a ruling requiring the company to show why a receiver should not be named, Vice Chancellor Buchanan said yesterday that the company lost only $66,431 in the first quarter of 1930 compared with four million dollars in 1927 and 1928.

TWO KILLED IN LIQUOR BATTLE

Dry Informer and Negro Meet Death in Georgia Clashes.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 2—(AP)—Two men, one a prohibition informer and the other a negro and an alleged liquor runner, were killed in two battles at the same place between a prohibition raiding party and bootleggers late last night.

The informer Herman Warr, a figure in many liquor cases in this section and in Florida, was fatally wounded in the first battle Officers brought him to a hospital here where he died, and then returned to the scene of the encounter, a lonely road not far from Macon, and engaged in another exchange of fire. In this second fight, the negro identified as Sam Knight, was shot to death after he had opened fire on the officers

A L Patterson, 56, planter and member of a prominent family, was arrested at his home in Macon, about eight miles from the swamp and was ordered held by prohibition officers on a charge of killing Warr. Jail officials said Patterson denied participating in the shooting They said he owned land near the swamp.

REVERSE ORDER BAR PULPWOOD

Russian Products Not Made by Convicts, Lowman Rules.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—(AP)—Russian pulpwood valued at $4,500,000 will be permitted to enter the United States under a reversal of the treasury decision which had placed an embargo on such shipments on the ground convict labor had entered into their production

After hearing evidence brought by the Russian and American interests involved, Assistant Secretary Lowman ordered customs collectors to admit the pulpwood He announced the data on which the exclusion had been ordered was "conflicting and inconclusive"

Six Ships Now In.

Six shiploads of the pulp were in American ports, ready to unload today A score more are on the seas or ready to leave the Russian port of Archangel. The remainder has been contracted for and ships are under charter

The pulp was sold by the Amtorg Trading corporation, Russian official commerce agency, to the International Paper Co the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co and the Racquett River Paper Co All these concerns joined with the owners and charterers of the ships involved, in protesting the embargo

Many Protests Filed.

At a final hearing yesterday the protestants entered denials that convict labor had been used in producing the pulp and argued that American paper mills would be forced to close down, with consequent serious unemployment, if the supplies contracted for were barred

The permission to bring in the Russian pulpwood, Lowman made clear, will in no way alter the treasury's determination to enforce the tariff law provisions barring foreign convict-made products Protests have been filed with the department against admission of virtually every Russian product now imported to the United States.

Says Drouth Damage Is Slight Out West

Coffee Tells Of Certified Seed Potatoes and Alfalfa Seed

Raised in Nebraska

OMAHA, Aug. 2—(AP)—Damage from the recent drouth in western Nebraska was termed "negligible," by Harry E Coffee, alfalfa and potato grower of Chadron, in a talk before the chamber of commerce here

Certified seed potatoes from western Nebraska are selling as fast as they can be raised, he said, citing as an example of the popularity of Nebraska seed potatoes the fact that out of 38 carloads on hand at a southern point recently, all but two were from Nebraska.

The potato crop is in good condition, he said, and a normal yield is expected

Farmers of western Nebraska, Coffee stated, are now organizing forces for the production of certified alfalfa seed in large quantities.

The Dirigible Experiment
Mr. Sloan Cuts Power Rates

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

The R-100 trip proves British determination to rule the new ocean of air and make safe its islands that are real islands no longer. It is a lesson to this country, too much given to watchful waiting in aviation.

The difficulties of the R-100 drifting with a damaged fin, in a storm that heavier-than-air ships might easily conquer, indicate that the dirigible of light fabric, with power unequal to its difficulties, is only an interesting experiment thus far.

Future Zeppelins, of light metal, strong as steel, obviating danger from lightning, with engines powerful enough and frames rigid enough to defy storms, may compete with heavier-than-air planes.

The present dirigible is like a big ocean liner, of feeble construction, equipped with an engine too weak to control itself.

It is like a whale with the tail of a catfish.

Matthew S. Sloan, head of New York's Edison Power Co., yesterday filed with the public service commission schedules of lower rates for electric current.

This follows Mr. Sloan's advice to a recent convention of power men to improve business by making power cheaper and its use universal.

Consider the results, if all houses had electric vacuum cleaners, washing machines, fans, cooking stoves, and every farm used electricity to cut wood, grind feed, pump water, milk cows, etc.

Coal for power would regain its value, many idle would find work, human efficiency would be increased.

Henry Ford, hearing of the new power charge schedules, called at Mr. Sloan's office to congratulate him. "To increase profits and general prosperity," said Mr. Ford, "increase production and cut prices. That is how I succeeded."

That is how all industry, intelligently managed, must win success. If railroads had tried it business might be better, and motor busses, automobiles and motor trucks might not be ruining much of the railroads' business.

Ramsay MacDonald, with his daughter, has gone to Oberammergau and will see the Passion play tomorrow.

First British prime minister to visit Germany since the war, he will be well received and entertained at dinner by the premier of Bavaria. War hatreds and suspicions are gradually dying, and the results of war are puzzling.

Of the three great European nations involved, Germany, beaten, is more prosperous than England victorious. And France victorious, is infinitely more prosperous than any of the others.

Forty-nine boys, competing in the Edison "most intelligent boy in America test," had before them 34 questions of which they must answer 31.

They were asked to give the value of 10 acres of farming land in a good section of Iowa. Not even the governor of Iowa could answer that with certainty.

The boys were asked to tell by what facts they will determine whether they have succeeded or failed, as they lie on their death bed. Answers to that question will be interesting.

On his death bed a man doesn't look back over his life, praising or blaming himself. He is too worn and weary. He asks for a handkerchief, or like Goethe, for "more light" his failing eyes making him think the room is dark.

The 34 questions are deep and interesting. The boy reading them might well say to Mr. Edison: "If I could answer your questions, I wouldn't need your scholarship, I'd be too wise already."

Government prohibition forces, for the present, will concentrate on "big violators," ignoring "home brew" and other efforts of citizens to alcoholize themselves. Prohibition may become an egart to prevent bootleggers from making money by their trade, leaving the citizen to supply himself with alcohol as best he can, without interference.

Unfortunately the citizen would then poison himself slowly. Nothing is more destructive to a man's interior, barring wood alcohol, than improperly made "home brew."

Ninety per cent of New York's so-called legitimate theaters, in which actors appear in person and talk to each other, are closed. Producers learn that the public prefers a good "talkie" to a second-rate legitimate play.

Extortionate prices for seats in the hands of the speculators may have started the trouble.

Great moving picture concerns may be compelled to run the legitimate old-fashioned theaters, even at a loss, as laboratories for the training of talent.

The Western Union Co. arranges to "speed up" stock ticker machines. New machines are installed in New York's brokers' offices. Soon they will be in all American cities and Canada.

If Wall Street will arrange to speed up higher prices, everything will be prepared for another boom.

Two Big Crowds See Sells Floto Circus Here Friday

Nearly 5,000 persons jammed into the "big tent" Friday night, for the circus was in town. Headlined by a personal appearance of Tom Mix, the Sells Floto shows presented a thorough-going parade of "big time" entertainment at Fifth and A streets. A matinee performance was also attended by a packed audience.

The movie star and a troupe of cowboys and cowgirls only circled the arena a few times during the main performance, but staged a wild west show following.

Everything was there. Amos 'n Andy and their "Fresh Air Taxi Cab" had a terrible time with a balky car that sputtered, exploded, ran alone, spouted water, and what not.

A far cry from this buffooning, the aerial trapeze artists wrought cries of astonishment through their thrilling mid-air changes and somersaults.

On the ground, dainty young ladies tripped lightly to the orchestra's strains, and later the big old elephants obliged with their ideas of the "light fantastic."

Filling out a variety program, were the usual acrobats, trained bears, bareback riders, trained horses, women who gaily twirl while holding on only by their teeth, and of course, lots of clowns and animals.

German Fliers Preparing For Greenland Hop

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 2—(AP)—With approximately one-third of their over-water route covered, the two young German airmen who are flying from Berlin to the United States cast their eyes today toward Greenland, their next goal.

The fliers, Wolfram Hirth and Oscar Weller, reached Iceland late yesterday from the Orkney islands, covering the jump in ten minutes less than twelve hours. They left the Orkneys at 3:40 a. m. (E. S. T.) and came down on an improvised airfield near Kalladarnes, in the Reykjavik district at 7:30 p. m., (E. S. T.)

After the aviators reach Greenland their next hop will be to Canada. They are using a small, single-motored monoplane.

SIXTEEN DIE AS CAVE COLLAPSES

MELILLA, Spanish Morocco, Aug. 2—(AP)—Sixteen natives, including fifteen women, were killed today by the collapse of a cave in the town of Beribuidar, region of Tensaman. Twenty natives were in the cave extracting clay for use in washing clothes when the accident occurred.

FOREST BLAZES RAGE UNCHECKED

Flames In Montana and Idaho Destroy Many Acres of Timber.

MISSOULA, Mont., Aug. 2—(AP)—Fires which have laid waste thousands of acres of western Montana and northern Idaho forests, rage unchecked today, despite efforts of hundreds of volunteer fighters, aided by airplanes.

Reinforcements were being rushed to Trout Creek near the Montana-Idaho boundary where a six-acre fire had defied the efforts of 250 men and spread over some 2,000 acres in twenty-four hours.

The Coolwater Creek fire east of Kooskia, Idaho, had swept over 1,500 acres of timber as four hundred men attempted to protect an eight-mile front.

Airplanes hovered over the leaping flames yesterday carrying observers to mark strategic points for ground forces to make their stands.

TARIFF BILL IS AGAINST FARMER

Norris Says Doesn't Come Within Mile Helping Him.

ALLIANCE, Neb., Aug. 2—(AP)—About six hundred gathered here last night to hear Senator George W. Norris flay the activities of monopolies and trusts in trying to control congressional moves. "We must place the farmer on an equality with the manufacturer" he said. "The recent tariff law is obnoxious and does not come within a mile of helping the farmer."

Answering the charge of Stebbins, that he is a "bad republican," Norris said he was not like some partisans who put their party first and the government second. Norris recieved cheers when he emphasized that he wanted to be fair to his fellowmen and had been honest in his attempts to fairly represent the people.

"Stebbins has not told the people what he thinks of farm relief; he has not said whether he is for or against the bill. My record on the subject has stood for ten years," Norris declared, and he told of writing the first farm relief bill eight years ago. "I do not want to be senator if I have to submit my conscience to trusts and monopolies. I believe in driving monopolistic money changers out of the party."

In answer to critics who asked what he had done for Nebraska, Norris continued, "these critics don't know that Nebraska is in the United States. They said I was crazy to ask for a subsidy for the farmer and they turned around and gave a ship subsidy to millionaires.

"Flood control can be best accomplished by placing reservoirs in tributaries to the Missouri, rather than putting dikes on the Mississippi."

He remarked briefly that George W. Norris, Broken Bow grocer, had filed merely to eliminate him.

Hoover Taking Complete Rest Virginia Camp

ORANGE, Vir., Aug. 2—(AP)—In an atmosphere of complete holiday from official business, President Hoover rested today at his lodge in the Virginia mountains, with only Mrs. Hoover and a few intimate friends as his companions.

Photographers were permitted to interrupt the camp routine for the first time this year, the president having relaxed his rule against pictures to allow the cameramen to make shots of the camp showing the many improvements made since last year.

The party encountered cool weather, in sharp contrast to the heat of last week end, and last night a fire was necessary in the large open fire place of the community hall for the first time since spring.

Horses awaited those members of the party who are fond of horseback riding early today for exploration along the secluded bridle paths leading along the crest of the Blue Ridge mountains.

The chief executive planned to take his exercise hiking. He expects to return to the white house early Monday.

PHONE AND LIGHT SERVICE CRIPPLED

(Special to The Star.)

PERU, Neb., Aug. 2—Telephone communication as well as electric light and power service in Peru was terminated about 3 o'clock Friday morning by the burning of Bert Patterson's barn back of the Millstead store. The fire was of unknown origin and the barn was almost entirely enveloped in flames before it was discovered. The feeder lines from the city light plant and the cable leading from the telephone exchange passed so near the building they could not be protected.

HOOVER STARTS MOVE TO HELP HOME BUILDING

National Conference Is Called to Study All Phases of Problem.

Hope Improve Financing Conditions to Aid Small Builder.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—(AP)—Coordinated effort to remove influences which are depriving thousands of Americans of the advantages of home ownership was set in motion today at the direction of President Hoover.

Privately financed, and with its studies directed at co-ordinating and stimulating private effort rather than seeking relief through legislation, a national conference on home ownership and building has been called by the president. A score of associations representing the majority of the interests touching on the problem were invited to detail their chiefs as members of a planning committee which will make up the conference program.

Bad Finance Conditions.

Mr. Hoover pointed out that financing conditions surrounding home building have been extremely bad and are particularly in need of adjustment. But this, he said, would be only one phase of the conference's work.

"Greater comfort and reduction in cost of construction in many parts of the country through improved design, the better layout of residential areas are all of first importance," the president said. "The expansion and betterment of homes in its bearing upon comfort, increasing standards of living and economic and social stability, is of outstanding importance."

To Study Mortgage Laws.

One legislative angle which the president said needed attention, however, was the matter of mortgage laws of many states which he said should be studied with a view to developing a "more intelligent attitude to the home builder."

Mr. Hoover pointed out that during the past months of depression there has been so acute a shortage of capital for home building that this branch of construction had fallen off greatly, while other forms of credit remained readily available. He noted particularly that first mortgages had been affected by competition of bonds and other investments, and that in many cities second mortgages, necessary to many prospective home owners, had risen in rates to the equivalent of 20 and 25 per cent by the time commissions, discounts and other charges were figured in.

Slowup Hurts Labor.

The president said the building and loan associations have been of great service in home financing but were inadequate to carrying the burden without aid. The curtailment of home building construction, he said, was a notable cause of unemployment in the building trades.

Secretary Lamont will head the planning committee and John M. Gries, chief of the division of building and housing of the commerce department will be executive secretary. The planning committee itself will set the date for the conference.

PILOT BURNS TO DEATH AS CRAFT HITS POWER LINE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2—(AP)—Earl Lyon, Redondo Beach, Cal., 27-year-old glider pilot, burned to death yesterday when his ship snagged on a power line and was set afire. The craft was about thirty feet in the air when it struck the line. Lyon died in the flames before he could be rescued.

RECOVERING FROM SUICIDE ATTEMPT

BEATRICE WEDDING.

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., Aug. 2—James Charles Langdale of Beatrice and Miss Clara Mildred Hevelone of Barneston were married at the Christian parsonage yesterday, Rev. C. O. Stuckenbruck officiating. Members of the immediate families witnessed the ceremony. They will make their home in Beatrice.

Husband Had to Do Her Work

"When my baby was a month old, I took a heavy cold and after that I felt miserable. Could not lift anything. My husband had to help me with the housework. I was so weak I could not do a washing. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Kittaning paper and I gave it a good trial. Before I had taken half a bottle, I found the difference. I do all my own work now and I have told others how much this medicine helped me."—Mrs. Alice Bassett, Cadogan, Pennsylvania.

RECEIVER DENIED FOR PATHE FILMS

TRENTON, N. J. Aug. 2—(AP)—The court of Chancery has overruled an action to have a receiver appointed for the Pathe Exchange, Inc., holding that although the film company has been operated at a loss of approximately $4,566,000 for the last four years it is now "bettering" its affairs.

Denying the application of Mitchel Fox, owner of 200 shares of stock, for a ruling requiring the company to show why a receiver should not be named, Vice Chancellor Buchanan said yesterday that the company lost only $66,431 in the first quarter of 1930 compared with four million dollars in 1927 and 1928.

TWO KILLED IN LIQUOR BATTLE

Dry Informer and Negro Meet Death in Georgia Clashes.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 2—(AP)—Two men, one a prohibition informer and the other a negro and an alleged liquor runner, were killed in two battles at the same place between a prohibition raiding party and bootleggers late last night.

The informer, Herman Warr, a figure in many liquor cases in this section and in Florida, was fatally wounded in the first battle. Officers brought him to a hospital here where he died, and then returned to the scene of the encounter, a lonely road not far from Macon, and engaged in another exchange of fire. In this second fight, the negro, identified as Sam Knight, was shot to death after he had opened fire on the officers.

A. L. Patterson, 56, planter and member of a prominent family, was arrested at his home in Macon, about eight miles from the swamp and was ordered held by prohibition officers on a charge of killing Warr. Jail officials said Patterson denied participating in the shooting. They said he owned land near the swamp.

REVERSE ORDER BAR PULPWOOD

Russian Products Not Made by Convicts, Lowman Rules.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—(AP)—Russian pulpwood valued at $4,500,000 will be permitted to enter the United States under a reversal of the treasury decision which had placed an embargo on such shipments on the ground convict labor had entered into their production.

After hearing evidence brought by the Russian and American interests involved, Assistant Secretary Lowman ordered customs collectors to admit the pulpwood. He announced the data on which the exclusion had been ordered was "conflicting and inconclusive."

Six Ships Now In.

Six shiploads of the pulp were in American ports, ready to unload today. A score more are on the seas or ready to leave the Russian port of Archangel. The remainder has been contracted for and ships are under charter.

The pulp was sold by the Amtorg Trading corporation, Russian official commerce agency, to the International Paper Co., the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co. and the Racquett River Paper Co. All these concerns joined with the owners and charterers of the ships involved, in protesting the embargo.

Many Protests Filed.

At a final hearing yesterday the protestants entered denials that convict labor had been used in producing the pulp and argued that American paper mills would be forced to close down, with consequent serious unemployment, if the supplies contracted for were barred.

The permission to bring in the Russian pulpwood, Lowman made clear, will in no way alter the treasury's determination to enforce the tariff law provisions barring foreign convict-made products. Protests have been filed with the department against admission of virtually every Russian product now imported to the United States.

Says Drouth Damage Is Slight Out West

Coffee Tells Of Certified Seed Potatoes and Alfalfa Seed Raised in Nebraska.

OMAHA, Aug. 2—(AP)—Damage from the recent drouth in western Nebraska was termed "negligible," by Harry E. Coffee, alfalfa and potato grower of Chadron, in a talk before the chamber of commerce here.

Certified seed potatoes from western Nebraska are selling as fast as they can be raised, he said, citing as an example of the popularity of Nebraska seed potatoes the fact that out of 38 carloads on hand at a southern point recently, all but two were from Nebraska.

The potato crop is in good condition, he said, and a normal yield is expected.

HARTINGTON BANK TO PAY DIVIDEND

HARTINGTON, Neb., Aug. 2—(AP)—A third dividend amounting to about $37,000 will soon be distributed to depositors of the defunct Hartington National bank, W. H. Allen, receiver, hopes to have the funds ready for distribution by August 15.

CONSERVING WATER.

There comes a time when patience becomes a fault and fortitude a sin. It has called for both patience and fortitude on the part of the people of Lincoln to accept the autocratic and dictatorial methods which have characterized the handling of water affairs in this community by the recognized authorities at the city hall.

These reflections are inspired by an announcement by the city commission, under the leadership of Commissioner Schroeder, who is directly in charge of the water department, that it has prepared a drastic ordinance covering the use of water. It is an emergency ordinance, made necessary to avert the hazards of fire loss during a period of intense heat and drouth. Naturally it will be obeyed, and should be observed but that fact does not in any way lessen the resentment, when those responsible for the emergency through lack of vision, attempt to shift responsibility to other shoulders.

If he possessed a sense of humor, Mr. Schroeder would have smiled to himself when he told a reporter Friday that "For the most part people are giving the water department excellent cooperation in helping conserve water and thereby lessening the fire hazard. There are, however, some who are apparently doing everything they can to embarrass the city. They use water day and night, wasting it in great quantities, thereby endangering the property of every citizen of the city.

For more than fifteen years, Mr. Schroeder has been the head of the water department. He and those associated with him upon the council have known the exact facts of Lincoln's water supply. They have recognized that any protracted drouth would result in exactly the situation which confronts Lincoln today.

Mr. Schroeder, if he was correctly quoted, is unappreciative of the civic pride which inspired thousands of people in Lincoln to spend considerable sums of money in the beautification of their homes. They planted trees, and shrubbery and flowers and went to heavy expense in developing lawns. Some of these improvements have been irreparably damaged because of lack of water. The loss will become far more serious should the extreme heat continue over a considerable period of time without a break in the drouth. It has been this deep-seated pride in the physical appearance of the residential sections of Lincoln which has been one of the city's most valuable assets, and it has been responsible for attracting thousands to the community.

Now Mr. Schroeder speaks of an unwillingness on the part of the people to cooperate with the water department in the conservation of water. He may rest assured he will have co-operation. This is not a time to quarrel over who killed Cock Robin. But it is a time for planning for the future, and for men with the capacity of leadership to come forward in the solution of a problem which is of supreme importance to Lincoln. The importance of an adequate supply of water cannot be over-emphasized. It is one of the first essentials of a city. Back over the last twenty years each emergency has produced a demand that something be done and yet no steps have been taken to solve the folly of relying entirely upon deep wells for city water.

Mr. Schroeder's department should be ambitious to sell water.

The absurdity of the situation is reflected when it is recalled that exactly at the time when people want to use water, they are told they cannot have it. No industry which made it a practice to say to voluntary customers that we have no goods for you could hope to exist.

The trouble has been that at the close of each summer there has been the feeling that next year would be soon enough to consider the problem of getting more water. The demand drops off and we beguile ourselves with the hope that another season will see cooler weather and greater precipitation. For people supposedly competent to govern ourselves there is too much of the ostrich in such a policy. The only city efficiently managed is that community which is prepared for emergencies. A program of preparedness, intelligently and economically handled, is real economy in the long run.

It will cost the people of Lincoln money to adequately safeguard the water supply. Yet in the end it will be money saved. The commission should lose no time in formulating its water program and submitting it to the people for approval.

WHAT THE BANK INVESTIGATION HAS DONE.

Now that the detailed inquiry authorized by the legislature of 1929 regarding bank failures and the general administration of Nebraska's banking laws has been virtually concluded, the people of the state will soon be given information enabling them to judge the results of this post mortem.

The investigation was undertaken in response to an overwhelming popular demand for specific facts instead of unverified stories and rumors which were in circulation concerning alleged irregularities in various banks both before and after they failed, and allegations to the effect that the assets of some of the suspended institutions had been sold to favored bidders at inadequate prices. The efficiency of the state's supervision over banks was also brought into question.

Director Shallenberger of the banking investigation has already made public a great many things uncovered by his corps of accountants and other helpers. It has been established that there were a good many instances where the state banking administration some years ago permitted institutions that were known to be insolvent to continue operations after examiners had repeatedly pointed out their condition. Numerous violations of law by managing officers of banks in loaning money to themselves, their relatives and business associates, making excess loans to favored customers, and using bank funds for private personal speculation have likewise been brought to light.

If the former officials charged with overseeing the operation of banks could have known what serious results were to follow, they probably would have acted with greater vigor in stopping such practices. Their idea seems to have been to go easy on offending bankers in the hope that they would mend their ways. How poorly that theory worked is well illustrated by the case of Paul Wupper, whose defalcation and flight left the depositors of his institution at Beemer holding the sack for nearly a million dollars.

In many cases, as disclosed by the reports of the bank investigation, some depositors were allowed to draw out most or all of their money, while others got little or nothing, after the banks were taken over by the guaranty fund commission. While this seems very unjust, it is only fair to that body to say that it was then the expectation that the guaranty fund would eventually pay all losses. When it became evident that the fund was insolvent and the prospect of its ever catching up with the rapidly accruing losses vanished, the commission changed its policy in that regard.

It was to correct these inequalities, so far as possible, that the legislature at its special session last spring provided in the new banking law that depositors who have heretofore been paid the least percentage of their claims should come first in the distribution of the new "depositors' final settlement fund" which takes the place of the guaranty fund.

The bank investigation has served to clear the atmosphere of wild and irresponsible tales, by ascertaining and giving to the public the real facts. It has also laid the foundation for a better and more effective system of supervision in future.

QUICK FREEZING.

One of the most interesting developments of the improved processes of artificial refrigeration is "quick freezing." Its discovery has already made a substantial contribution to handling of foodstuffs with possibilities yet not fully realized.

Formerly it was thought that meat or fish had to be placed in cold storage for six hours or so at a temperature of about 12 degrees below freezing in order to get them chilled for preservation. Under that process, meat lost about 5 per cent in weight and some of the valuable juices.

Under "quick freezing," meat or fish is suddenly put under a temperature of 50 degrees below zero. It is frozen so quickly that ice crystals in the meat are not given time to grow and to destroy the cell walls. In the result is a frozen product which, when thawed out, is substantially the same as the original product.

Besides giving an improved product from refrigeration under "quick freezing," the method has permitted advance cutting of meat into saleable units. This has aided distribution and permitted parts formerly wasted to be utilized in new ways.

The chief possibilities for the future from "quick freezing" are in the fields of refrigeration of fresh fruits and vegetables. If the method can be adapted to such perishables, it is estimated that an incalculable economic advantage can be given producers as well as insuring fresh vitamin-filled foods the year round for the consumer. The possibilities are attractive, even to the unscientific mind. They are one of the many indications of the improvements yet possible in the production and distribution of the necessities of life which can make easier the material difficulties of life.

Club Hears Gerber Discuss Natural Gas

Carl H. Gerber, a consulting engineer, discussed the economic questions of natural gas in an address before members of the Co-Operative club at their weekly luncheon at the Shrine club Friday noon. He asserted that the life of natural gas wells averages only about eight years. Mr. Gerber contended that a franchise would not hold a company to a maximum rate if the company should show a loss. The investment in natural gas projects is so great that the interest must be carried by the consumer, Mr. Gerber said.

Miss Madeline Jackson gave several piano selections and Mrs. Earl Burnett, accompanied by Mrs. H. S. Porter sang several solos. Golf was enjoyed by the members after the luncheon.

LIFE'S METHODS.

Life passes along with an armful of things,
Which all helter-skelter to mortals she flings,
And some of her tokens are pleasant to gain,
While others are heavily freighted with pain;
But hoping for pleasures, some gather up woes,
For the richest and poorest must take what she throws.

Some of us fancy that life should be kind,
And toss us the joys we are eager to find,
She has them in plenty on men to bestow
For others got blessings we're eager to know;
But life doesn't ask what we wish as she goes,
Be is pleasure or grief, we must take what she throws.

With sorrow and pleasure, with hopes and with fears,
With comfort and pain, and with smiles and with tears,
Life passes along, and she scatters them all,
Nor heeds just on whom or just where they may fall;
And rich man and poor man, and subject and kings,
Must take as their portion whatever she flings.

So wise is the man who builds strength for his care,
And faith for the sorrows all mortals must bear,
Who looks not to life for her pleasures alone,
But knows that with joys many heartaches are thrown;
Fools are ready for laughter, but down through the years,
Only strong men and wise men are ready for tears.

BLACK IS TAKEN BACK TO IOWA

Father Brings Charge of Forgery Against Son; Two Others Cleared.

Apprehended here Friday morning, Dale Black, 19, who told police that he had driven a small coupe 46,000 miles, through seven states and Canada since the machine was stolen from a Red Oak, Ia., automobile firm a month ago, was returned to Red Oak last night. The youth was taken back by a sheriff accompanied by the boy's father, who told Captain of Detectives Anderson that he had brought forgery charges against his son.

Motor Officer Frank Robbins' suspicions about the license plate on the car, which caused him to stop it at Tenth and P streets, proved to be correct. Black admitted that he had stolen the plate from a Dodge county car several days ago. Two other boys with Black were cleared of any connection with the case. Black admitted taking the car himself, according to police, picking up the others along the road at different points.

During his travels he wrecked the car twice, he said, once sustaining a slight injury. All glass had been knocked from the car.

Questions from Lincoln Star readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

QUESTION.

Oakland, Cal.

I am anxious to make a man of my only son 14 years of age. I am a widow with three children, two daughters and a boy. What general lines of training would you suggest?

ANSWER.

(1) Rely on the sacred promise that God will be a husband to the widow and a father to the fatherless.

(2) Guide the lad with a kindly but firm hand, and the silken reins which mother love's wisdom weaves so deftly.

(3) Urge him to work when he works, as if life were nothing but work, and to play when he plays, as if life were nothing but play.

(4) Co-operate with him to find tasks that interest and recreations that renew him.

(5) Teach him to concentrate on the thing that must be done and never allow it to be pushed aside for what is not so important.

(6) Tell him what he ought to know now, that his body is God's best physical creation because it houses his soul. As the King's palace it should be kept clean and wholesome.

(7) Enroll him in the nearest Boy Scout troop. Its training will second every effort your maternal sense dictates.

QUESTION.

Anderson, S. C.

What in your opinion has been the effect of the radio on religion?

ANSWER.

I am convinced that the radio is developing a common mind, a common culture and a common purpose in our religious life as a nation. Coming as it did after the deep disturbances of the World war, it has taught perplexed millions that there is a Divinity which shapes national and international ends, rough hew them as men may.

The best radio preaching presents religion's noncontroversial elements. It penetrates beneath all separative forms of faith to its underlying basis in love for God expressed by sacrificial deeds for man. It insists that we shall not merely pity sufferers from injustice and wrong, and then pass them by. It scorns the nebulous sentimentalism which prates about brotherhood only to act solely for private interests. It unites Jew and Christian on the indisturbable basis that if men are brothers, God is their Father, and therefore they must exhibit conduct well pleasing to Him.

This religion is transmitted to countless "shut-ins," bedridden invalids, inmates of jails and asylums, lonely frontiersmen, lumbermen, sailors on the sea, coast-guardsmen and lighthouse keepers on the shore, as well as to hosts of dwellers in villages, towns, cities and rural districts.

After every detriment has been carefully considered and weighed, the total effect of the radio's religious ministries is immensely beneficial for the nation. The fifty million people who hold no allegiance to any creed or church are challenged daily through this marvelous child of science, by the Eternal Voice of righteousness, compassion and self-abnegating service for others.

QUESTION.

Leonia, N. J.

Kindly point out where in the Bible or in any Christian doctrine it positively states that a man would certainly be punished for an offense against a fellow man such as murder or robbery.

On the contrary, does not the Bible and the entire Christian religion teach that such an offender will be forgiven if he repents?

Where does justice enter if a man guilty of such a crime has merely to repent? What about the victim of his act and the compensation to be made to that victim?

ANSWER.

Every man stands in a threefold relationship. He is related to the world through natural law. He is related to his fellow men through social and statutory law. He is related to God through spiritual law. You do not seem to realize that a change may take place in a man's relation to God and still leave the man bound to pay the penalty of violated natural or statutory law.

God's forgiveness of a man who repents of his sin is a transaction within the realm of spiritual law. It is a matter of personal relationship. It is not entirely separate from the effects of the wrong in the other relationships of life, and yet in some respects it may be.

If the sensual man repents, God forgives him, but forgiveness does not involve restoring the voluptuary's shattered health. If the murderer repents, God forgives him. Bu He does not expect the state to remit the penalty. You ask, Where in the Bible does it say that He does not? I ask, Where in the Bible does it say that He does?

A forgiven man knows himself at peace with God. But in countless instances a man who believes God has forgiven him, for that very reason feels that his repentance would not be complete if he did not bravely endure the punishment prescribed by his fellow men for his offense, for he then looks upon that punishment as part of God's purging process in effecting his restoration.

RED SILENCE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS.

The story of a girl whose secret trailed her from New York to California.

The Story Thus Far: Dory Garrison, leeing from a painful romance in New York, finds herself installed in the Penfield home in California. Jerd, the oldest son, falls in love with her. Dory loves him in return, but does not tell him the extent of her "affair" with Bruce Macgowan, playwright. She and Jerd are to be married.

Chaper 15.

The day before the wedding Dory and Jerd walked the three or four warm green blocks to Mary's little bungalow, and said a formal goodbye to Mary Third, who was an exhibition dressed in exactly two garments, one invisible and secured with pins, the other a delicate little handkerchief linen frock of Aunt Dory's own presenting.

"Mary, she's adorable in it."

"We just took pictures of her," Mary stated, being at the stage when snapshopts of the baby with weeks and days carefully enumerated on the back must be sent to all friends.

After a while Dory and Jerd wandered back to the big house, pausing for the usual ecstatic contemplation of the Cottage on their way. It already looked a home in the twilight; the windows were closed and curtained now; Kate and a late decorator's man were doing something to the front door, three caterers and a "special" policeman were discussing deliveries and parking space in the side garden.

"Dory, there are more presents upstairs, and your flowers are here in my bathroom and your dressmaker telephoned and said to slip into your white coat, and if it's a shade too long, she'll send somebody down tonight," Mrs. Penfield said, appearing in the dining-room door, her costume capably protected by a bungalow apron and rubber gloves. She had long scissors and some blue and pink hydrangeas in her hands. The sharp sweetness of wet chrysanthemums filled the dim hall.

"Mother, everyone will laugh at me if I am a flower girl and have a pimple on my chin!" complained Julia, screwing herself out of the dining room, and speaking in a loud whine.

"Dory, there's a man to see you in the little room back of the library, an old friend, he said—"

"An old friend!" The world turned upside down; her heart stood still. "Macgowan?"

"No, that wasn't the name. I put his card—but it wasn't Macgowan. I know. Stop that, Julia, you'll have it all down. Jerd, come in here a minute—"

Dory walked across the hall and opened the little study door. A man was standing there, silhouetted against the dying light at the window, a vague bulk of broad round shoulders and dark suit.

In a moment she saw who it was. Wally Oliver, big, fat, soft, and lazy, whose beautiful little daughter Sonia had married at fifteen, married Tony Reppettino, who had already had two wives, and who was older than Wally himself. Dory remembered how oddly silent little Sonia had been since her marriage, wearing her ring and her name so quietly, looking at life out of such strained childish eyes.

"Hello, Dory. Here with the 'Follow My Leader' company. Couldn't go back without saying 'How do.'"

The soft unctuous voice brought back the Jacksons' studio and the hot sticky summer nights and a thousand other memories.

"Why did you come—why did you come?" thought Dorry, smiling up at him, offering her small hand.

He only stayed about fifteen minutes; he had to play that night. "A damn butler's part on in every act."

After he had gone Dory went upstairs. She felt dazed and sick; her mouth grew dry, her lips parched, her hands cold. Her heart beat hard and fast with nameless terrors.

She closed the door of her room and sat down on the bed. Minutes passed; she vaguely heard voices, slamming doors and foot-steps in the hall; she did not move. Presently she got up and went to the bathroom and sponged her face and drank half a glass of cold water. Then she came back and sat down again on the bed.

In the twilight of the room wedding accessories were in view. A plain white silk frock with blue bands on it, a plain white hat with a blue rose, a white belted coat, and a luscious soft white fox pelt, were in readiness for the bride's departure. Dory's luggage was there; a pigskin case with her new initials on it, a wardrobe trunk already filled with silkiness and sweetness, layers of white paper, scatterings of fragrance.

Dory went to the window and looked out. She could not see the Cottage; the tops of the trees hid it. But she could see the familiar roadway that led in that direction, and the "special" policeman still consulting with Kate. Thurston, busy and effecient, swept through the side gate in his own disreputable car and began to unload chairs at the door.

Wally Oliver's oily voice, his repulsive personality—

She had hardly looked at him. She had only been conscious of his intrusion between her and the sun, a black, fat, threatening bulk.

Not that he had threatened. No, he had merely talked. And she had come to her desk, upstairs here, and written him a check for one hundred dollars. Hush money.

It wasn't that, of course. Only—only it made one so sick—so nauseated and cold, to have money brought into it at all.

"Dory—God, I hate to ask a girl for money! But they're not making any, and we all agreed to cut salaries after the second week—"

"Fifty? Why, Wally, you know I will. Or a hundred? Will a hundred be better? Let me make it a hundred?"

"Money, huh?" Wally had asked, with a gesture of head and shoulders that had indicated the Penfields' house generally.

"Enough."

"Enough? And he's an engineer, eh? First thing I saw in the paper this morning— That's how I happened to know where you were. But sa-ay—sa-ay," Wally had said, lowering his voice, glancing about. "The paper said rich."

"They always say that."

"S'pose so. So you've kinder fallen on your feet, Dory?"

"I've fallen in love."

"Funny they should be so terrible nice to you about it. I mean, most folks wouldn't be in such a hurry to marry off a rich son."

"They're like that. They adore him. He was hurt in the war, and they're only too anxious to have him settle down."

"Your — your 'intended' knows about New York, does he? He don't mind?"

Her mouth dry, her hands cold, she had answered quietly, unconcernedly and untruthfully.

"There's nothing he doesn't know, Wally."

"Some feller!" Wally had commented admiringly.

The octopus. The great loathsome dark spider, a black blot between her and tomorrow's fragrance, sweetness, and safety.

"Well, sure, it wouldn't make any difference to me." Wally had said magnificently. Another comprehensive gesture had included the Penfields again. "But these people — well, they're different."

"When do you go back, Wally?"

"Well, if we bust up, I may hang 'round for a while and get a job doing something, I guess. But if we don't we leave Sunday.'"

Sunday! Only until Sunday—

"I s'pose you heard about Sonia and Tony kicking me out?"

"No."

"Sure they did. He's a hot one, that gird."

Wally had taken his departure, and Dory had gone upstairs. She stood at the window, thinking vaguely, inconsequentially, now of some detail of the tremendous tomorrow, now of some phrase or expression of Wally's. His was a sneak's face: his was a coward's whining voice. Wally was a sneak, and a coward, and a bully.

"Idiot!" Dory said to herself. "Poor old Wally Oliver, who hasn't sense enough to plan anything—anticipate anything. And you're letting him scare you to death. He's amiable and he has no friends here, and nothing to do, and seeing your name in the paper of course he comes wandering down to see what's going on. Poor Wally! The loan didn't mean anything, he used to borrow from Bruce all the time, and it probably was an afterthought, when he discovered that Jerd has plenty.

"How I wish—to goodness he hadn't happened to read that newspaper!" Dory said, half aloud. "I hate Wally Oliver. I always have. No wonder Sonia kicked him out. I'd kick him out. Oh, dear . . ."

The thing receded, came nearer, waned and strengthened maddeningly. Her mind was already weary of it. Was it significant? Wasn't it?

Dory tossed her head, and with the gesture tossed the troubling thought resolutely away. The best thing to do was to forget it. She brushed up her soft hair and changed to her slippers, stopping now and then to admire her wedding gown, holding it wide with both hands.

"Funny!" she said aloud more than once.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Jim Crow's Return

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS

A scapegrace, do what'er he may,
Will often have a winning way.
—Mother Brown.

For three nights and three days Jim Crow had been a member of the flock over in the Green Forest. For three nights and three days he had tasted the joys of freedom. And now he was ready to confess that this so-called freedom did not taste as sweet as he had expected. It would soon be time for the flock to seek a lonesome part of the Green Forest to go to bed for the night. Jim Crow didn't like to think of it. Never until he had left his home at Farmer Brown's had he known what fear was at night. Now, every night he was afraid. All the other Crows were afraid.

"Im not going to do it," said Jim Crow, talking aloud, as it drew near to the time to seek their perches for the night.

"What is it you are not going to do?" inquired his father, Blacky.

"I'm not going back to the Green Forest to shiver and snake tonight," declared Jim Crow.

"What are you going to do?" inquired Blacky.

"I'm going back where I was," declared Jim Crow. "I'm going back where I can have plenty to eat without working hard to get it; where I can sleep without worrying, and where I don't have to fly away from every man I see. What is more, I'm going right this minute."

Jim Crow was as good as his word. In spite of the taunts of the other Crows, he headed straight for Farmer Brown's cornfield, where Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy were just making ready to leave for home. "My goodness!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "What are those Crows making such a fuss about?" He stood for a moment looking across the Green Meadows toward the big flock of Crows. They were cawing excitedly. As he looked, one of the flock separated from the others and headed straight toward him. The other Crows started in pursuit, then changed their minds. But the lone Crow came straight on.

"I wonder if that is Jim Crow!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "I believe it is. I believe the rascal is coming home. He gave the call that he used to use when he wanted Jim Crow to come to him. There was an answering "Caw," and it seemed as if the lone Crow flew faster than ever. In a few minutes he was so near that Farmer Brown's Boy recognized him. There was no question but that it was his lost pet Crow. Straight to him flew the black bird and alighted on his right shoulder. Such a jabbering as there was then! Jim Crow, with his bill close to the right ear of Farmer Brown's Boy, jabbered Crow talk as fast as his tongue could go. Yes, sir, he did so. Now and then he would give Farmer Brown's Boy's ear a gentle tweak.

"What's the matter with you, you black scamp?" cried Farmer Brown's Boy. "What are you making such a fuss about? One would think you had been rescued from something. You could have come home any time you wanted to. Beside, you needn't have gone in the first place."

To all this, Jim Crow replied with Crow talk, not one word of which could Farmer Brown's Boy understand. But then, it wasn't necessary to understand the words. Jim Crow's actions were quite as easily understood as any words and it was very clear, indeed that Jim Crow was delighted to be at home once more. So up the Long Lane he rode on Farmer Brown's Boy's shoulder, and across the dooryard to the back door. There stood Mother Brown.

"So that nuisance is back, is he?" she exclaimed. "I hoped he had gone for good."

Farmer Brown's Boy grinned. He knew that Mother Brown didn't really mean that. He knew that right down in her heart she was glad to see Jim Crow back again.

"What are you going to do?" inquired Blacky.

"I am enclosing my picture to show you what an awful looking human I am. MRS. M."

ANSWER.

Don't think of your loss in terms of 50 or 100 pounds; think of it in units of 10. Say you weigh 209 pounds; think of getting down to 199, so you're out of that horrible 200. And when you're down to 199, think of getting down to 189, etc.

Your being too good a cook gives a clue to your overweight, doesn't it? You probably use a lot of butter in your cooking and other things that you could leave out, and you would soon find out that you'd like the food better. For instance, I used to love fatty foods, but I hate 'em now.

Fat is the one element you can cut out almost entirely on the reducing diet, without any harmful effects. However, there is no need of cutting it out entirely. It makes the food more satisfying, for fat stays longest in the stomach in the process of digestion. And on account of the vitamin A, you should have some butter, at least 100 C. (one level tablespoon), or cream (about two ounces, thin), unless you take cod liver oil. A teaspoon of that would contain only 35 C. and is very much higher in vitamin A than an equal amount of butter or cream, it also has the sunshine vitamin D, which has to do with the calcium and phosphorus metabolism, so is necessary for teeth and bones at all ages. You could take cod liver oil tablets, three or four daily (they are calorieless) (Get the brand that is accepted by the American Medical Association Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry; this fact is stated on the label.)

It is not unusual to lose as much as 10 pounds during the first week—especially if you are very much overweight and go on the liquid diet for three days. Then it is not at all unusual after this to go for four or five days without reducing at all. In fact, the scales seldom show a loss every day; it's usually after three or four days that they will even be higher, even while on a reducing diet. This is on account of the water balance factor. Your tissues are holding some water for some reason; perhaps the food was more concentrated or saltier. But don't let this discourage you, because you have actually lost in fat if you have been on the reducing number of calories, and it will register sooner or later.

Realty Mortgage Debt Reduced Half Million In July

Releases on city mortgaged property amounted to more than a half million dollars in July, according to the monthly summary of the register of deeds. Mortgages on city property filed during the month totaled less than half in consideration involved, the amount on releases.

Transactions, as shown by registration of deeds, continued slack in July with the month showing smaller filing of deeds and lower total consideration than in June. There were 186 deeds filed for a total consideration of $304,220, during July.

Twenty-three farm mortgages with a consideration of $107,945 were filed in July. Nineteen were released, the consideration being $91,945. City mortgages numbered 104 with a consideration of $217,140. City releases involved a consideration of $550,910 on 142 releases.

CONSERVING WATER.

There comes a time when patience becomes a fault and fortitude a sin. It has called for both patience and fortitude on the part of the people of Lincoln to accept the autocratic and dictatorial methods which have characterized the handling of water affairs in this community by the recognized authorities at the city hall.

These reflections are inspired by an announcement by the city commission, under the leadership of Commissioner Schroeder, who is directly in charge of the water department, that it has prepared a drastic ordinance covering the use of water. It is an emergency ordinance, made necessary to avert the hazards of fire loss during a period of intense heat and drouth. Naturally it will be obeyed, and should be observed but that fact does not in any way lessen the resentment, when those responsible for the emergency through lack of vision, attempt to shift responsibility to other shoulders.

If he possessed a sense of humor, Mr. Schroeder would have smiled to himself when he told a reporter Friday that "For the most part people are giving the water department excellent cooperation in helping conserve water and thereby lessening the fire hazard. There are, however, some who are apparently doing everything they can to embarrass the city. They use water day and night, wasting it in great quantities, thereby endangering the property of every citizen of the city.

For more than fifteen years, Mr. Schroeder has been the head of the water department. He and those associated with him upon the council have known the exact facts of Lincoln's water supply. They have recognized that any protracted drouth would result in exactly the situation which confronts Lincoln today.

Mr. Schroeder, if he was correctly quoted, is unappreciative of the civic pride which inspired thousands of people in Lincoln to spend considerable sums of money in the beautification of their homes. They planted trees, and shrubbery and flowers and went to heavy expense in developing lawns. Some of these improvements have been irreparably damaged because of lack of water. The loss will become far more serious should the extreme heat continue over a considerable period of time without a break in the drouth. It has been this deep-seated pride in the physical appearance of the residential sections of Lincoln which has been one of the city's most valuable assets, and it has been responsible for attracting thousands to the community.

Now Mr. Schroeder speaks of an unwillingness on the part of the people to cooperate with the water department in the conservation of water. He may rest assured he will have co-operation. This is not a time to quarrel over who killed Cock Robin. But it is a time for planning for the future, and for men with the capacity of leadership to come forward in the solution of a problem which is of supreme importance to Lincoln. The importance of an adequate supply of water cannot be over-emphasized. It is one of the first essentials of a city. Back over the last twenty years each emergency has produced a demand that something be done and yet no steps have been taken to solve the folly of relying entirely upon deep wells for city water.

Mr. Schroeder's department should be ambitious to sell water.

The absurdity of the situation is reflected when it is recalled that exactly at the time when people want to use water, they are told they cannot have it. No industry which made it a practice to say to voluntary customers that we have no goods for you could hope to exist.

The trouble has been that at the close of each summer there has been the feeling that next year would be soon enough to consider the problem of getting more water. The demand drops off and we beguile ourselves with the hope that another season will see cooler weather and greater precipitation. For people supposedly competent to govern ourselves there is too much of the ostrich in such a policy. The only city efficiently managed is that community which is prepared for emergencies. A program of preparedness, intelligently and economically handled, is real economy in the long run.

It will cost the people of Lincoln money to adequately safeguard the water supply. Yet in the end it will be money saved. The commission should lose no time in formulating its water program and submitting it to the people for approval.

WHAT THE BANK INVESTIGATION HAS DONE.

Now that the detailed inquiry authorized by the legislature of 1929 regarding bank failures and the general administration of Nebraska's banking laws has been virtually concluded, the people of the state will soon be given information enabling them to judge the results of this post mortem.

The investigation was undertaken in response to an overwhelming popular demand for specific facts instead of unverified stories and rumors which were in circulation concerning alleged irregularities in various banks both before and after they failed, and allegations to the effect that the assets of some of the suspended institutions had been sold to favored bidders at inadequate prices. The efficiency of the state's supervision over banks was also brought into question.

Director Shallenberger of the banking investigation has already made public a great many things uncovered by his corps of accountants and other helpers. It has been established that there were a good many instances where the state banking administration some years ago permitted institutions that were known to be insolvent to continue operations after examiners had repeatedly pointed out their condition. Numerous violations of law by managing officers of banks in loaning money to themselves, their relatives and business associates, making excess loans to favored customers, and using bank funds for private personal speculation have likewise been brought to light.

If the former officials charged with overseeing the operation of banks could have known what serious results were to follow, they probably would have acted with greater vigor in stopping such practices. Their idea seems to have been to go easy on offending bankers in the hope that they would mend their ways. How poorly that theory worked is well illustrated by the case of Paul Wupper, whose defalcation and flight left the depositors of his institution at Beemer holding the sack for nearly a million dollars.

In many cases, as disclosed by the reports of the bank investigation, some depositors were allowed to draw out most or all of their money, while others got little or nothing, after the banks were taken over by the guaranty fund commission. While this seems very unjust, it is only fair to that body to say that it was then the expectation that the guaranty fund would eventually pay all losses. When it became evident that the fund was insolvent and the prospect of its ever catching up with the rapidly accruing losses vanished, the commission changed its policy in that regard.

It was to correct these inequalities, so far as possible, that the legislature at its special session last spring provided in the new banking law that depositors who have heretofore been paid the least percentage of their claims should come first in the distribution of the new "depositors' final settlement fund" which takes the place of the guaranty fund.

The bank investigation has served to clear the atmosphere of wild and irresponsible tales, by ascertaining and giving to the public the real facts. It has also laid the foundation for a better and more effective system of supervision in future.

QUICK FREEZING.

One of the most interesting developments of the improved processes of artificial refrigeration is "quick freezing." Its discovery has already made a substantial contribution to handling of foodstuffs with possibilities yet not fully realized.

Formerly it was thought that meat or fish had to be placed in cold storage for six hours or so at a temperature of about 12 degrees below freezing in order to get them chilled for preservation. Under that process, meat lost about 5 per cent in weight and some of the valuable juices.

Under "quick freezing," meat or fish is suddenly put under a temperature of 50 degrees below zero. It is frozen so quickly that ice crystals in the meat are not given time to grow and to destroy the cell walls. In the result is a frozen product which, when thawed out, is substantially the same as the original product.

Besides giving an improved product from refrigeration under "quick freezing," the method has permitted advance cutting of meat into saleable units. This has aided distribution and permitted parts formerly wasted to be utilized in new ways.

The chief possibilities for the future from "quick freezing" are in the fields of refrigeration of fresh fruits and vegetables. If the method can be adapted to such perishables, it is estimated that an incalculable economic advantage can be given producers as well as insuring fresh vitamin-filled foods the year round for the consumer. The possibilities are attractive, even to the unscientific mind. They are one of the many indications of the improvements yet possible in the production and distribution of the necessities of life which can make easier the material difficulties of life.

Club Hears Gerber Discuss Natural Gas

Carl H. Gerber, a consulting engineer, discussed the economic questions of natural gas in an address before members of the Co-Operative club at their weekly luncheon at the Shrine club Friday noon. He asserted that the life of natural gas wells averages only about eight years. Mr. Gerber contended that a franchise would not hold a company to a maximum rate if the company should show a loss. The investment in natural gas projects is so great that the interest must be carried by the consumer, Mr. Gerber said.

Miss Madeline Jackson gave several piano selections and Mrs. Earl Burnett, accompanied by Mrs. H. S. Porter sang several solos. Golf was enjoyed by the members after the luncheon.

LIFE'S METHODS.

Life passes along with an armful of things,
Which all helter-skelter to mortals she flings,
And some of her tokens are pleasant to gain,
While others are heavily freighted with pain;
But hoping for pleasures, some gather up woes,
For the richest and poorest must take what she throws.

Some of us fancy that life should be kind,
And toss us the joys we are eager to find,
She has them in plenty on men to bestow
For others got blessings we're eager to know;
But life doesn't ask what we wish as she goes,
Be is pleasure or grief, we must take what she throws.

With sorrow and pleasure, with hopes and with fears,
With comfort and pain, and with smiles and with tears,
Life passes along, and she scatters them all,
Nor heeds just on whom or just where they may fall;
And rich man and poor man, and subject and kings,
Must take as their portion whatever she flings.

So wise is the man who builds strength for his care,
And faith for the sorrows all mortals must bear,
Who looks not to life for her pleasures alone,
But knows that with joys many heartaches are thrown;
Fools are ready for laughter, but down through the years,
Only strong men and wise men are ready for tears.

Father Brings Charge of Forgery Against Son; Two Others Cleared.

Apprehended here Friday morning, Dale Black, 19, who told police that he had driven a small coupe 46,000 miles, through seven states and Canada since the machine was stolen from a Red Oak, Ia., automobile firm a month ago, was returned to Red Oak last night. The youth was taken back by a sheriff accompanied by the boy's father, who told Captain of Detectives Anderson that he had brought forgery charges against his son.

Motor Officer Frank Robbins' suspicions about the license plate on the car, which caused him to stop it at Tenth and P streets, proved to be correct. Black admitted that he had stolen the plate from a Dodge county car several days ago. Two other boys with Black were cleared of any connection with the case. Black admitted taking the car himself, according to police, picking up the others along the road at different points.

During his travels he wrecked the car twice, he said, once sustaining a slight injury. All glass had been knocked from the car.

QUESTION.

Oakland, Cal.

I am anxious to make a man of my only son 14 years of age. I am a widow with three children, two daughters and a boy. What general lines of training would you suggest?

ANSWER.

(1) Rely on the sacred promise that God will be a husband to the widow and a father to the fatherless.

(2) Guide the lad with a kindly but firm hand, and the silken reins which mother love's wisdom weaves so deftly.

(3) Urge him to work when he works, as if life were nothing but work, and to play when he plays, as if life were nothing but play.

(4) Co-operate with him to find tasks that interest and recreations that renew him.

(5) Teach him to concentrate on the thing that must be done and never allow it to be pushed aside for what is not so important.

(6) Tell him what he ought to know now, that his body is God's best physical creation because it houses his soul. As the King's palace it should be kept clean and wholesome.

(7) Enroll him in the nearest Boy Scout troop. Its training will second every effort your maternal sense dictates.

QUESTION.

Anderson, S. C.

What in your opinion has been the effect of the radio on religion?

ANSWER.

I am convinced that the radio is developing a common mind, a common culture and a common purpose in our religious life as a nation. Coming as it did after the deep disturbances of the World war, it has taught perplexed millions that there is a Divinity which shapes national and international ends, rough hew them as men may.

The best radio preaching presents religion's noncontroversial elements. It penetrates beneath all separative forms of faith to its underlying basis in love for God expressed by sacrificial deeds for man. It insists that we shall not merely pity sufferers from injustice and wrong, and then pass them by. It scorns the nebulous sentimentalism which prates about brotherhood only to act solely for private interests. It unites Jew and Christian on the indisturbable basis that if men are brothers, God is their Father, and therefore they must exhibit conduct well pleasing to Him.

This religion is transmitted to countless "shut-ins," bedridden invalids, inmates of jails and asylums, lonely frontiersmen, lumbermen, sailors on the sea, coast-guardsmen and lighthouse keepers on the shore, as well as to hosts of dwellers in villages, towns, cities and rural districts.

After every detriment has been carefully considered and weighed, the total effect of the radio's religious ministries is immensely beneficial for the nation. The fifty million people who hold no allegiance to any creed or church are challenged daily through this marvelous child of science, by the Eternal Voice of righteousness, compassion and self-abnegating service for others.

QUESTION.

Leonia, N. J.

Kindly point out where in the Bible or in any Christian doctrine it positively states that a man would certainly be punished for an offense against a fellow man such as murder or robbery.

On the contrary, does not the Bible and the entire Christian religion teach that such an offender will be forgiven if he repents?

Where does justice enter if a man guilty of such a crime has merely to repent? What about the victim of his act and the compensation to be made to that victim?

ANSWER.

Every man stands in a threefold relationship. He is related to the world through natural law. He is related to his fellow men through social and statutory law. He is related to God through spiritual law. You do not seem to realize that a change may take place in a man's relation to God and still leave the man bound to pay the penalty of violated natural or statutory law.

God's forgiveness of a man who repents of his sin is a transaction within the realm of spiritual law. It is a matter of personal relationship. It is not entirely separate from the effects of the wrong in the other relationships of life, and yet in some respects it may be.

If the sensual man repents, God forgives him, but forgiveness does not involve restoring the voluptuary's shattered health. If the murderer repents, God forgives him. Bu He does not expect the state to remit the penalty. You ask, Where in the Bible does it say that He does not? I ask, Where in the Bible does it say that He does?

A forgiven man knows himself at peace with God. But in countless instances a man who believes God has forgiven him, for that very reason feels that his repentance would not be complete if he did not bravely endure the punishment prescribed by his fellow men for his offense, for he then looks upon that punishment as part of God's purging process in effecting his restoration.

RED SILENCE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS.

The story of a girl whose secret trailed her from New York to California.

The Story Thus Far: Dory Garrison, leeing from a painful romance in New York, finds herself installed in the Penfield home in California. Jerd, the oldest son, falls in love with her. Dory loves him in return, but does not tell him the extent of her "affair" with Bruce Macgowan, playwright. She and Jerd are to be married.

Chaper 15.

The day before the wedding Dory and Jerd walked the three or four warm green blocks to Mary's little bungalow, and said a formal goodbye to Mary Third, who was an exhibition dressed in exactly two garments, one invisible and secured with pins, the other a delicate little handkerchief linen frock of Aunt Dory's own presenting.

"Mary, she's adorable in it."

"We just took pictures of her," Mary stated, being at the stage when snapshopts of the baby with weeks and days carefully enumerated on the back must be sent to all friends.

After a while Dory and Jerd wandered back to the big house, pausing for the usual ectatic contemplation of the Cottage on their way. It already looked a home in the twilight; the windows were closed and curtained now; Kate and a late decorator's man were doing something to the front door, three caterers and a "special" policeman were discussing deliveries and parking space in the side garden.

"Dory, there are more presents upstairs, and your flowers are here in my bathroom and your dressmaker telephoned and said to slip into your white coat, and if it's a shade too long, she'll send somebody down tonight," Mrs. Penfield said, appearing in the dining-room door, her costume capably protected by a bungalow apron and rubber gloves. She had long scissors and some blue and pink hydrangeas in her hands. The sharp sweetness of wet chrysanthemums filled the dim hall.

"Mother, everyone will laugh at me if I am a flower girl and have a pimple on my chin!" complained Julia, screwing herself out of the dining room, and speaking in a loud whine

"Dory, there's a man to see you in the little room back of the library, an old friend, he said—"

"An old friend!" The world turned upside down; her heart stood still. "Macgowan?"

"No, that wasn't the name. I put his card—but it wasn't Macgowan, I know. Stop that, Julia, you'll have it all down. Jerd, come in here a minute—"

Dory walked across the hall and opened the little study door. A man was standing there, silhouetted against the dying light at the window, a vague bulk of broad round shoulders and dark suit.

In a moment she saw who it was. Wally Oliver, big, fat, soft, and lazy, whose beautiful little daughter Sonia had married at fifteen, married Tony Reppettino, who had already had two wives, and who was older than Wally himself. Dory remembered how oddly silent little Sonia had been since her marriage, wearing her ring and her name so quietly, looking at life out of such strained childish eyes.

"Hello, Dory. Here with the 'Follow My Leader' company. Couldn't go back without saying 'How do.'"

The soft unctuous voice brought back the Jacksons' studio and the hot sticky summer nights and a thousand other memories.

"Why did you come—why did you come?" thought Dorry, smiling up at him, offering her small hand.

He only stayed about fifteen minutes: he had to play that night.. "A damn butler's part on in every act."

After he had gone Dory went upstairs. She felt dazed and sick; her mouth grew dry, her lips parched, her hands cold. Her heart beat hard and fast with nameless terrors.

She closed the door of her room and sat down on the bed. Minutes passed; she vaguely heard voices, slamming doors and foot-steps in the hall; she did not move. Presently she got up and went to the bathroom and sponged her face and drank half a glass of cold water. Then she came back and sat down again on the bed.

In the twilight of the room wedding accessories were in view. A plain white silk frock with blue bands on it, a plain white hat with a blue rose, a white belted coat, and a luscious soft white fox pelt, were in readiness for the bride's departure. Dory's luggage was there; a pigskin case with her new initials on it, a wardrobe trunk already filled with silkiness and sweetness, layers of white paper, scatterings of fragrance.

Dory went to the window and looked out. She could not see the Cottage; the tops of the trees hid it. But she could see the familiar roadway that led in that direction, and the "special" policeman still consulting with Kate. Thurston, busy and effecient, swent through the side gate in his own disreputable car and began to unload chairs at the door.

Wally Oliver's oily voice, his repulsive personality—

She had hardly looked at him. She had only been conscious of his intrusion between her and the sun, a black, fat, threatening bulk.

Not that he had threatened. No, he had merely talked. And she had come to her desk, upstairs here, and written him a check for one hundred dollars. Hush money.

It wasn't that, of course. Only—only it made one so sick—so nauseated and cold, to have money brought into it at all.

"Dory—God, I hate to ask a girl for money! But they're not making any, and we all agreed to cut salaries after the second week—"

"Fifty? Why, Wally, you know I will. Or a hundred? Will a hundred be better? Let me make it a hundred?"

"Money, huh?" Wally had asked, with a gesture of head and shoulders that had indicated the Penfields' house generally.

"Enough."

"Enough? And he's an engineer, eh? First thing I saw in the paper this morning— That's how I happened to know where you were. But sa-ay--sa-ay," Wally had said, lowering his voice, glancing about. "The paper said rich."

"They always say that."

"S'pose so. So you've kinder fallen on your feet, Dory?"

"I've fallen in love."

"Funny they should be so terrible nice to you about it. I mean, most folks wouldn't be in such a hurry to marry off a rich son."

"They're like that. They adore him. He was hurt in the war, and they're only too anxious to have him settle down."

"Your — your 'intended' knows about New York, does he? He don't mind?"

Her mouth dry, her hands cold, she had answered quietly, unconcernedly and untruthfully.

"There's nothing he doesn't know, Wally."

"Some feller!" Wally had commented admiringly.

"Well, sure ,it wouldn't make any difference to me." Wally had said magnificently. Another comprehensive gesture had included the Penfields again. "But these people — well, they're different."

"When do you go back, Wally?"

"Well, if we bust up, I may hang 'round for a while and get a job doing something, I guess. But if we don't we leave Sunday.' '

Sunday! Only until Sunday—

"I s'pose you heard about Sonia and Tony kicking me out?"

"No."

"Sure they did. He's a hot one, that gird."

Wally had taken his departure, and Dory had gone upstairs. She stood at the window, thinking vaguely, inconsequentially, now of some detail of the tremendous tomorrow, now of some phrase or expression of Wally's. His was a sneak's face; his was a coward's whining voice. Wally was a sneak, and a coward, and a bully.

"Idiot!" Dory said to herself. "Poor old Wally Oliver, who hasn't sense enough to plan anything—anticipate anything. And you're letting him scare you to death. He's amiable and he has no friends here, and nothing to do, and seeing your name in the paper of course he comes wandering down to see what's going on. Poor Wally! The loan didn't mean anything, he used to borrow from Bruce all the time, and it probably was an afterthought, when he discovered that Jerd has plenty.

"How I wish—to goodness he hadn't happened to read that newspaper!" Dory said, half aloud. "I hate Wally Oliver, I always have. No wonder Sonia kicked him out. I'd kick him out. Oh, dear . . ."

The thing receded, came nearer, waned and strengthened maddeningly. Her mind was already weary of it. Was it significant? Wasn't it?

Dory tossed her head, and with the gesture tossed the troubling thought resolutely away. The best thing to do was to forget it. She brushed up her soft hair and changed to her slippers, stopping now and then to admire her wedding gown, holding it wide with both hands.

"Funny!" she said aloud more than once.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS

A scapegrace, do whate'er he may,
Will often have a winning way.
—Mother Brown.

For three nights and three days Jim Crow had been a member of the flock over in the Green Forest. For three nights and three days he had tasted the joys of freedom. And now he was ready to confess that this so-called freedom did not taste as sweet as he had expected. It would soon be time for the flock to seek a lonesome part of the Green Forest to go to bed for the night. Jim Crow didn't like to think of it. Never until he had left his home at Farmer Brown's had he known what fear was at night. Now, every night he was afraid. All the other Crows were afraid.

"Im not going to do it," said Jim Crow, talking aloud, as it drew near to the time to seek their perches for the night.

"What is it you are not going to do?" inquired his father, Blacky.

"I'm not going back to the Green Forest to shiver and shake tonight," declared Jim Crow.

"What are you going to do?" inquired Blacky.

"I'm going back where I was," declared Jim Crow. "I'm going back where I can have plenty to eat without working hard to get it; where I can sleep without worrying, and where I don't have to fly away from every man I see. What is more, I'm going right this minute."

Jim Crow was as good as his word. In spite of the taunts of the other Crows, he headed straight for Farmer Brown's cornfield, where Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy were just making ready to leave for home. "My goodness!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "What are those Crows making such a fuss about?" He stood for a moment looking across the Green Meadows toward the big flock of Crows. They were cawing excitedly. As he looked, one of the flock separated from the others and headed straight toward him. The other Crows started in pursuit, then changed their minds. But the lone Crow came straight on.

"I wonder if that is Jim Crow!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "I believe it is. I believe the rascal is coming home. He gave the call that he used to use when he wanted Jim Crow to come to him. There was an answering "Caw," and it seemed as if the lone Crow flew faster than ever. In a few minutes he was so near that Farmer Brown's Boy recognized him. There was no question but that it was his lost pet Crow. Straight to him flew the black bird and alighted on his right shoulder. Such a jabbering as there was then! Jim Crow, with his bill close to the right ear of Farmer Brown's Boy, jabbered Crow talk as fast as his tongue could go. Yes, sir, he did so. Now and then he would give Farmer Brown's Boy's ear a gentle tweak.

"What are you going to do?" inquired Blacky.

"What's the matter with you, you black scamp?" cried Farmer Brown's Boy. "What are you making such a fuss about? One would think you had been rescued from something. You could have come home any time you wanted to. Beside, you needn't have gone in the first place."

To all this, Jim Crow replied with Crow talk, not one word of which could Farmer Brown's Boy understand. But then, it wasn't necessary to understand the words. Jim Crow's actions were quite as easily understood as any words and it was very clear, indeed that Jim Crow was delighted to be at home once more. So up the Long Lane he rode on Farmer Brown's Boy's shoulder, and across the dooryard to the back door. There stood Mother Brown.

"So that nuisance is back, is he?" she exclaimed. "I hoped he had gone for good."

Farmer Brown's Boy grinned. He knew that Mother Brown didn't really mean that. He knew that right down in her heart she was glad to see Jim Crow back again.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M. D.

ENCOURAGE YOURSELF TO REDUCE BY THINKING IN UNITS OF TEN.

QUESTION.

"I own a copy of your Petersizing pamphlet, and it has been a great help to me. I weighed 250 a month ago. I am 43 years old, 5 ft. 5 in. tall. My normal weight should be around 146, but how I ever going to get down to it, is a problem.

"The first week of dieting I lost 10 pounds; the second 3½ and since then I've been holding my own. How I wish you could give us tablets containing will power and stick-to it-iveness! The trouble with me has been that I'm too good a cook; we have lots of friends and we all like to eat. Physically I am sound.

"I am enclosing my picture to show you what an awful looking human I am. MRS. M."

ANSWER.

Don't think of your loss in terms of 50 or 100 pounds; think of it in units of 10. Say you weigh 209 pounds; think of getting down to 199, so you're out of that horrible 200. And when you're down to 199, think of getting down to 189, etc.

Your being too good a cook gives a clue to your overweight, doesn't it? You probably use a lot of butter in your cooking and other things that you could leave out, and you would soon find out that you'd like the food better. For instance, I used to love fatty foods, but I hate 'em now.

Fat is the one element you can cut out almost entirely on the reducing diet, without any harmful effects. However, there is no need of cutting it out entirely. It makes the food more satisfying, for fat stays longest in the stomach in the process of digestion. And on account of the vitamin A, you should have some butter, at least 100 C. (one level tablespoon), or cream (about two ounces, thin), unless you take cod liver oil. A teaspoon of that would contain only 35 C. and is very much higher in vitamin A than an equal amount of butter or cream. It also has the sunshine vitamin D, which has to do with the calcium and phosphorus metabolism, so is necessary for teeth and bones at all ages. You could take cod liver oil tablets, three or four daily (they are calorieless.) (Get the brand that is accepted by the American Medical Association Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry; this fact is stated on the label.)

It is not unusual to lose as much as 10 pounds during the first week—especially if you are very much overweight and go on the liquid diet for three days. Then it is not at all unusual after this, to go for four or five days without reducing at all. In fact, the scales seldom show a loss every day; it's usually after three or four days that they will even be higher, even while on a reducing diet This is on account of the water balance factor. Your tissues are holding some water for some reason; perhaps the food was more concentrated or saltier. But don't let this discourage you, because you have actually lost in fat if you have been on the reducing number of calories, and it will register sooner or later.

Dr. Lulu Hunt Peters died in London on June 28. These articles had been prepared by her for future publication.

Twenty-three farm mortgages with a consideration of $107,945 were filed in July. Nineteen were released, the consideration being $91,945. City mortgages numbered 104 with a consideration of $217,140. City releases involved a consideration of $550,910 on 142 releases.

MARKET QUOTATIONS

GRAIN MARKETS.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 2

All deliveries of wheat today sold at new low price records, outdoing bottom levels heretofore unreached in many years. Instability of wheat quotations were consequent to a considerable extent on expectations of a liberal increase of the United States visible supply total on Monday. Notwithstanding, however, that the wheat market was in some respects the star performer, corn attracted more attention during much of the day, and averaged higher with March delivery attaining a new up price record for the season, the weather forecast for the week indicating that there would be no general breaking of the drought.

Wheat closed nervous, ¾ to ⅞c lower than yesterday's finish. Today's closing prices: September, 85¾c; December, 90⅝c; March, 95c.

Corn closed irregular, ranging from ⅛c net decline to 1¾ advance. Today's closing prices: September, 86¾c; December, 84c; March, 87½c.

Provisions showing 17 to 45c advance.

Reports of rain in Iowa, turned the corn market downward early today after prices had equaled the recent topmost levels. Subsequent advices said the Iowa moisture was only a light sprinkle and that widespread drought persisted, but profit taking sales on the part of recent buyers of corn continued, and new purchasing lacked volume for at least the time being. Wheat trade paralleled the action of corn. Opening unchanged to ⅜c higher, corn receded all around to well below yesterday's finish. Wheat started ⅛c off to ⅞c up, and later underwent a general drop.

News at hand today from some corn belt districts told of ground being so dry that the cracks were damaging the corn roots. Other districts sent word that showers did but little good, that corn growth is stunted, with the leaves curling badly, and that over large sections the plants will not kernel better than half a crop unless soaking general rains radically change the situation. On the other hand, many traders appeared to be acting on belief that price advances have gone a long way toward discounting the damage already done to corn.

Selling ascribed largely to sources in the northwest carried the wheat market down today to a new low price record. The selling was associated with the progress o fdomestic spring wheat operations. Relative absence of export business on account of holidays abroad was a depressing influence, likewise predictions of a larger Canadian wheat crop this year than last season.

Provisions went higher as a result of scattered commission house buying.

A good deal of notice was taken in the corn market today of suggestions that the next government crop report will show increasing shrinkage in the prospective corn yield. An opposite factor, however, was knowledge that corn is selling higher than wheat and that wheat as well as other grain is being substituted expensively for corn.

The arrival of corn in Chicago today was 278 cars, a week ago 244, and a year ago 232.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.
International News Service.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2

The narrowest of price changes were recorded today in an extremely dull midsummer week-end market. For first time in more than two years transactions on the big board fell under 500,000 shares, the recorded total at 11 30 a. m. being only 251,000 shares.

There were no movements of importance in any section of the list. Warner Brothers was pounded down about a point while most of the utility stocks which were under pressure in the last two days firmed up on short covering near the close. U. S. Steel was in a range about a point higher, and closed at 166¼, up 1. Eastman Kodak closed a point higher at 210 and Westinghouse up a point at 145¾.

Consolidates Gas led the late rally in the utilities and closed about 2½ points higher, at 107. Radio was up ⅝ at 42¾. American Can up 1¾ at 129⅝; Warner Brothers down 1⅞ at 35⅞; American and Foreign Power up ⅛ at 72⅜; Columbia Gas up ⅞ at 63⅝. Electric Power up 1 at 70; J. I. Case up 1⅝ at 155¼.

Outside the special features in industry and business, speculative demand for stock fell away to the vanishing point and the total volume of sales declined to 366,090 shares, including the inactives. The Dow Jones averages showed a gain of 91 cents for the industrials and 18 cents for the rails.

New records were established in the stock market today—for dull trading and a general decline in speculative interest in all sections of the market. The turnover in the first half-hour dropped off to the volume of 104,000 shares, the lowest ever recorded under the present system this is at the rate of 400,000 shares for the two-hour session, and reflects better than any other factor the virtual withdrawal of active traders from the market at this time.

The week-end business industrial review contained little of interest or encouragement to either the bulls or the bears. The storm weather has helped the moving of some lines of goods, but on the whole the business situation is unchanged, a turn for the better in the automobile business, predicted by the head of the Chrysler organization, was without special effect on the market.

Short covering in the utility stocks produced fractional advances in Electric Power, American Waterworks and others. The downward move in Consolidated Gas appeared to have been arrested, for the time being. Warner Brothers was called upon to absorb further selling and declined to a new low under 36. A. M. Byers, Radio and other favorites were also under pressure in the second hour.

Cotton rallied 70 cents a bale, while corn and wheat declined fractionally in Chicago and New York, steel and oil stocks were in better demand in the late trading.

Radio moved down fractionally to 41⅞. Houston Oil was down 1¼ at 83¾; Westinghouse down ⅜ at 143¾; United Aircraft down ⅞ at 58⅞; Montgomery Ward down ⅛ at 35⅞; International Tel., down ¼ at 45¼.

Utilities were under mild selling pressure. Electric Power was down ½ at 68⅛; Columbia Gas down ½ at 62¼ Public Service of New Jersey down ⅜ at 90½, Consolidated Gas unchanged at 104⅝.

Allied Chemical was down ½ at 263½; American International down ⅜ at 34⅛; Case Threshing down 1½ at 192; Fox Film down ½ at 45⅛; United Corp down ⅛ at 32.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.
By International News Service.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2

An irregular tone was evidenced at the close of today's abbreviated session in curb stocks. The market continued inactive, the tape not moving for minutes at a stretch, in the slowest day of the year.

Duke Power spurted 9 points to its high of 174, near the close. Other issues including Electric Bond & Share, American Superpower, Associated Gas & Electric, and United Light & Power were fractionally higher. American Light & Traction and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore were both unchanged, while American Foreign Power warrants, American Gas & Electric, Niagara Hudson and United Gas (new) were fractionally lower.

Utilities Service continued in its dull and inactive sphere at 28½, off ⅛.

Oils were mostly higher with Gulf leading at 124⅝, up ⅞. Cosden was at 44⅝, up ⅛; Ohio new at 32⅜, up ⅛; Standard of Indiana at 50⅝, up ⅛ and Vacuum up ⅝ at 85½.

Curb stocks were generally lower at the opening today. Electric Bond & Share was off 1¼ at 81. Cities Service was off ⅛ at 28⅝. Associated Gas & Electric was up 1¼ at 32½. United Light & Power up ¼ at 41. Ford, Ltd., up ⅛ at 18⅜. American Superpower unchanged at 33. Goldman Sachs off ⅛ at 171¼, United Founders off ¼ at 17¾. Shenandoah unchanged at 11⅝. Blue Ridge unchanged at 9¾. United Gas (new) off ⅛ at 14⅝. Cosden Oil off ¼ at 44⅜ and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore unchanged at 115.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2

The week-end bond market was as dull and featureless as the balance of the important financial markets at the week-end. Diminished demand for the active government and corporation bonds was reflected in the narrowest of price changes all along theline. The convertibles were in unusually small demand, even for a half-holiday period.

German government 5½s dropped off to another new low for the year at 86¾, down 3½ points from the flotation price. Liberty first 4¼s sold at 102.2, and fourth 4¼s at 103.

St. Paul adjustment 5s led the activity in a slow and featureless railroad bond market and sold fractionally higher, at 51. Warner Brothers Pictures 6s advanced 1½ to 96¼. International Tel. & Tel. 4½s were unchanged at 100½, and Seaboar All Florida 6s up 3 points at 54.

MARKET QUOTATIONS

GRAIN MARKETS.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 2

All deliveries of wheat today sold at new low price records, outdoing bottom levels heretofore unreached in many years. Instability of wheat quotations were consequent to a considerable extent on expectations of a liberal increase of the United States viable supply total on Monday. Notwithstanding, however, that the wheat market was in some respects the star performer, corn attracted more attention during muc hof the day, and averaged higher with March delivery attaining a new op price record for the season, the weather forecast for the week indicating that there would be no general breaking of the drought.

Wheat closed nervous, ¾ to ⅞c lower than yesterday's finish. Today's closing prices: September, 85⅝c; December, 90⅝c; March, 9⅝c.

Corn closed irregular, ranging from ⅜c net decline to 1⅜ advance. Today's closing prices: September, 86¾c; December, 84c; March, 87⅝c.

Provisions showing 17 to 45c advance.

Reports of rain in Iowa, turned the corn market downward early today after prices had equaled the recent topmost levels. Subsequent advices said the Iowa moisture was only a light sprinkle and that widespread drought persisted, but profit taking sales on the part of recent buyers of corn continued, and new purchasing lacked volume for at least the time being. Wheat trade paralleled the action of corn. Opening unchanged to ⅜c higher, corn receded all around to well below yesterday's finish. Wheat started ¼c off to ⅜c up, and later underwent a general drop.

News at hand today from some corn belt districts told ofg round being so dry that the cracks were damaging the corn roots. Other districts sent word that showers did but little good, that corn growth is stunted, with the leaves curling badly, and that over large sections the plants will not kernel better than half a crop unless soaking general rains radically change the situation. On the other hand, many traders appeared to be acting on belief that price advances have gone a long way toward discounting the damage already done to corn.

Selling ascribed largely to sources in the northwest carried the wheat market down today to a new low price record. The selling was associated with the progress o fdomestic spring wheat operations. Relative absence of export business on account of holidays abroad was a depressing influence, likewise predictions of a larger Canadian wheat crop this year than last season.

Provisions went higher as a result of scattered commission house buying.

A good deal of notice was taken in the corn market today of suggestions that the next government crop report will show increasing shrinkage in the prospective corn yield. An opposite factor, however, was knowledge that corn is selling higher than wheat and that wheat as well as other grain is being substituted expensively for corn.

The arrival of corn in Chicago today was 278 cars, a week ago 244, and a year ago 232.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

International News Service.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2

The narrowest of price changes were recorded today in an extremely dull midsummer week-end market. For first time in more than two years transactions on the big board fell under 500,000 shares, the recorded total at 11:30 a. m. being only 251,000 shares.

There were no movements of importance in any section of the list. Warner Brothers was pounded down about a point while most of the utility stocks which were under pressure in the last two days firmed up on short covering near the close. U. S. Steel was in a range about a point higher, and closed at 166¼, up 1. Eastman Kodak closed a point higher at 210 and Westinghouse up a point at 145⅝.

Consolidates Gas led the late rally in the utilities and closed about 2½ points higher at 107. Radio was up ⅝ at 42¾. American Can up 1⅛ at 129⅜; Warner Brothers down 1⅛ at 35⅝; American and Foreign Power up ⅛ at 72⅜; Columbia Gas up ⅞ at 63⅝; Electric Power up 1 at 70; J. I. Case up 1¾ at 195¼.

In the absence of special features in industry and business, speculative demand for stock fell away to the vanishing point and the total volume of sales declined to 366,090 shares, including the inactives. The Dow Jones averages showed a gain of 91 cents for the industrials and 18 cents for the rails.

New records were established in the stock market today—for dull trading and a general decline in speculative interest in all sections of the market. The turnover in the first half-hour dropped off to the volume of 104,000 shares, the lowest ever recorded under the present system this is at the rate of 400,000 shares for the two-hour session, and reflects better than any other factor the virtual withdrawal of active traders from the market at this time.

The week-end business industrial review contained little of interest or encouragement to either the buls or the bears. The warm weather has helped the moving of some lines of goods, but on the whole the business situation is unchanged, a turn for the better in the automobile business, predicted by the head of the Chrysler organization, was without special effect on the market.

Short covering in the utility stocks produced fractional advances in Electric Power, American Waterworks and others. The downward move in Consolidated Gas appeared to have been arrested, for the time being. Warner Brothers was called upon to absorb further selling and declined to a new low under 36. A. M. Byers, Radio and other favorites were also under pressure in the second hour.

Cotton rallied 70 cents a bale, while corn and wheat declined fractionally in Chicago and New York, steel and oil stocks were in better demand in the late trading.

Lower prices in dull and narrow trading were recorded at the opening of the market today. U. S. Steel was an exception, opening at 165½, up ¼.

Radio moved down fractionally to 41⅞. Houston Oil was down 1¼ at 83¾; Westinghouse down ⅜ at 143¾; United Aircraft down ⅝ at 58⅜; Montgomery Ward down ⅛ at 35⅜; International Tel., down ¼ at 45¼.

Utilities were under mild selling pressure. Electric Power was down ½ at 68½; Columbia Gas down ½ at 62¼ Public Service of New Jersey down ⅝ at 90⅛. Consolidated Gas unchanged at 104⅝.

Allied Chemical was down ½ at 263½; American International down ⅝ at 34½; Case Threshing down 1⅛ at 192; Fox Film down ½ at 45⅛; United Corp down ⅛ at 32.

Auburn Motor advanced a point to 119. Bethlehem Steel sold up ⅛ at 81⅛ while Sears, Roebuck lost 1½ at 65½.

By International News Service.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2

An irregular tone was evidenced at the close of today's abbreviated session in curb stocks. The market continued inactive, the tape not moving for minutes at a stretch, in the slowest day of the year.

Duke Power spurted 9 points to its high of 174, near the close. Other issues including Electric Bond & Share, American Superpower, Associated Gas & Electric, and United Light & Power were fractionally higher. American Light & Traction and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore were both unchanged, while American Foreign Power warrants, American Gas & Electric, Niagara Hudson and United Gas (new) were fractionally lower.

Cities Service continued in its dull and inactive sphere at 28¼, off ¼.

Oils were mostly higher with Gulf leading at 124⅝, up ⅞. Cosden was at 44⅝, up ½; Ohio new at 32⅜, up ⅛; Standard of Indiana at 50⅜, up ⅛ and Vacuum up ⅜ at 85½.

Curb stocks were generally lower at the opening today. Electric WBond & Share was off ¼ at 81. Cities Service was off ⅛ at 28⅜. Associated Gas & Electric was up ¼ at 32½, United Light & Power up ⅛ at 41, Ford, Ltd., up ⅛ at 18⅜, American Superpower unchanged at 11, Goldman Sachs off ⅛ at 171⅛, United Founders off ¼ at 17¾, Shenandoah unchanged at 11⅞, Blue Ridge unchanged at 9¼, United Gas (new) off ⅛ at 14⅝, Cosdan Oil off ⅛ at 4⅜ and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore unchanged at 115.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2

The week-end bond market was as dull and featureless as the balance of the important financial markets at the week-end. Diminished demand for the active government and corporation bonds was reflected in the narrowest of price changes all along theline. The convertibles were in unusually small demand, even for a half-holiday period.

German government 5½s dropped off to another new low for the year at 86⅜, down 3¾ points from the flotation price. Liberty first 4¼s sold at 102.2, and fourth 4¼s at 103.

St. Paul adjustment 5s led the activity in a slow and featureless railroad bond market and sold fractionally higher, at 51. Warner Brothers Pictures 6s advanced 1½ to 96¼. International Tel. & Tel. 4½s were unchanged at 109½, and Seaboar All Florida 6s up 3 points at 54.

LIVESTOCK MARKETS.

By the Associated Press.
OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 2

CATTLE—The usual nominally steady market was quoted on all classes today as not enough were on sale to make a market; best steers and yearlings show an advance of 25 to 50c for the week with spots up more, due almost entirely to light receipts as demand has been just fair; plainer cattle are not over 25c higher, best light heifers shared the advance on steers and yearlings and fat cows showed some strength; but on cutters and tanners the price has been lowered; hardly enough stockers and feeders were offered to get quotations but the market is considered around steady with a week ago.

CLOSE: Cattle receipts, 2o; compared with a week ago; uneven, better grade fed steers and yearlings 25 to 50c higher; bids up more on choice yearlings and light steers; others steady to 25c higher; light heifers 25 to 50c higher, spots up more; oother she stock steady to 25c higher; cutter grades steady; bulls 25 to 50c higher, spots up more; vealers $1.00 to $1.50 lower; stockers and feeders scarce, steady; bulk fed steers and yearlings, $7.25@9.50; weighty steers, $9.60, medium weights, $9.65; 932 lb. yearlings, $10.25; fed heifers, $7.50@9.25; few loads up to $9.50; bulk beef cows, $5.00@6.00; few choice grain fed up to $7.50; bulk beef cows, $5.00@6.00; few choice grai nfed up to $7.50; all cutters $3.25@4.50; medium bulls, $5.25@6.35; few head, $6.40; practical top vealers, $9.50; few head to independents up to $11.00; bulk stockers and feeders, $4.75@ 6.50; Wyoming $7.00; yearlings up to $7.93.

HOGS—Today's run was the lightest for a Saturday for some time, but the market was ni a fairly active trade at levels mostly steady with Friday; few shipper sales, though barely enough to establish quotations in some instances showed a loss; sows $7.00 to $7.40; few lights up to $7.60; bulk of sales $8.25 to $9.00, and top for the day $9.16; prices are unevenly higher over the lost of last week and light butchers sowed most of the moving of some lines of goods, but on the whole the business situation is unchanged, a turn for the better in the automobile business, predicted by the head of the Chrysler organization, was without special effect on the market.

CLOSE: Hog receipts, 3,500; including 70 direct; medium and light weight hogs 210 lbs., down steady to 10c lower; heavier weight and packing sows steady; top, $9.15 on choice 212 lb., butchers; 170-215 lb. weights, mostly $9.00@9.15; 215-250 lb. butchers, $8.75@9.00; 250-320 lb. averages, $8.25@8.75, some down to $8.00; packing sows, $7.25@7.50; smooth light sows up to $7.60; average cost Friday $8.14, weight, 217.

New York Cotton.

By International News Service.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2

COTTON—An active covering movement in the New York cotton market during the early trading today sent prices up 10 to 16 points above the previous close. Others were limited and the trade seemed to be taking the drought more seriously despite a poor trade outlook which appeared to indicate small consumptive requirements. Selling from the south increased, however, and there was considerable liquidation by commission houses in the near months.

GROCER HID OUT IS NYE'S CLAIM

Sends Answer to Telegram of C. E. Matson, Lincoln.

Denies That Any Wire Tapping Was Attempted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 —(AP)— Senator Gerald P. Nye of the senate committee investigating campaign expenses, has announced receipt of a telegrapm from Charles E. Matson of Lincoln, protesting against postponement of committee hearings in that state on the ground that the whole affair should be sifted to the bottom before the primary on August 12.

Nye's telegram in reply follows:

"Full opportunity will be afforded you and others to lay pertinent facts before the committee, but I found the situation and the charges which were being studied in Nebraska of so serious a nature that I cannot consent to further hearing until more members of the committee than myself are available to conduct same and continue the investigation, and such opportunity will not afford itself prior to August 25 or thereabouts. For days prior to the hearings in Nebraska effort was made to locate Norris of Broken Bow and serve upon him subpoenae for his presence before the committee. Through his presence in Omaha and Lincoln on July 17 and 18 he could not help but know the committee desired his presence.

Stayed In Hiding.

"Yet he stayed in hiding until the committee had adjourned, which adjournment was made necessary by other engagements. Had Norris of Broken Bow done other than keep out of reach of subpoena servers and had there been more candor and less evasion and less of what possibly constitutes perjury during the hearings which were held, the hearings could have been closed with the Broken Bow and Lincoln session and there would have been avoided what now is charged as delay occasioned by prejudice and unfairness, which do not exist. I can see no particular significance in the fact that affidavit of withdrawal was placed in the hands of Senator Norris' friends too late to be filed with secretary of state and at the very hour when court was making decision.

"If there is any significance about it, it reflects further injury on the cause of Norris of Broken Bow and his alleged sponsors. I resent your insinuation that this committee urged or authorized or would tolerate any wiretapping program and advise you that no authorized agent of this committee did anything of the kind.

Could Have Been Heard.

"If there is any ground for your insinuation that the filing of Norris of Broken Bow was the result of a political scheme having for its object fraud on the officers and chief justice of Nebraska and on the voters of the state of Nebraska, then it is directly contrary to the conclusions which had to be drawn as a result of the testimony heard during the July hearings in Nebraska, at which time you could have availed yourself of the opportunity to be heard."

Reference to wiretapping was in reply to Matson's charge that federal agents had tapped the telephones of opponents of Senator Norris. The charge was not elaborated in Matson's telegram.

IS BADLY BEATEN BY FOUR OTHERS WHO MAKE ESCAPE

OMAHA, Aug. 2—(AP)—Beaten by four young men when he reprimanded them in a local park early today, Joseph Foy, 25, suffered serious injuries and is in a serious condition at a local hospital.

Miss Alice Swanson of Gothenburg, student nurse at a hospital here, who was with Foy and another couple, told police that a car containing the four young men drove up to the place where she and Foy were parked and shouted at them, whereupon Foy challenged all of them to fight. The four set upon him, beat him and then escaped, she said.

KINSTON, N. C., Aug. 2—(AP)— Charles K. Bailey, 52, sportsman, today shot and killed his wife, Irene, 40, and his foster son, Henry, 8, and then committed suicide.

Police said Bailey, apparently shot his wife while she was preparing breakfast, went to a bedroom and killed the boy and then returned to the kitchen where he shot himself.

Bailey for years was clerk of Police court here. He was discharged some months ago following an alleged shortage in his accounts.

Taminosian Attends Wedding of Daughter

Is Escorted By Two Detectives Of Omaha Police Force, Who Go At His Solicitation.

OMAHA, Aug. 2—(AP)— Miss Florence Taminosian, daughter of Mrs. Reuben Cook of Omaha, was wed here last night to Kenneth Clark at a fashionable ceremony.

The father, John I. Taminosian, was present—with two husky detectives of the Omaha police force as his escorts.

According to Taminosian, his daughter and former wife had sent word to him several days ago that he was not wanted at the wedding.

"So I went to Mayor Metcalfe, explained who I was and asked for police protection when I entered the church," Taminosian said. The mayor assented and orded that two detectives be detailed to escort the father.

However, when he went to the police station, the police told him that his former wife and his daughter had asked for police to keep him out of the church.

"Back to Mayor Metcalfe I went," he said. "The mayor then called my daughter and she said that I could attend."

Taminosian, however, insisted on having officers with him. He did—two of them. After the wedding Taminosian said he was satisfied.

Taminosian began his career in Omaha as an evangelist and finally went to Lincoln. There he was arrested for a liquor law violation and after a trial in which he acted as his own attorney was sentenced to serve ten months in jail. He did and is now living in Omaha.

Taminosian and the present Mrs. Cook were divorced in 1927.

GROCER HID OUT IS NYE'S CLAIM

Denies That Any Wire Tapping Was Attempted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 —(AP)— Senator Gerald P. Nye of the senate committee investigating campaign expenses, has announced receipt of a telegrapm from Charles E. Matson of Lincoln, protesting against postponement of committee hearings in that state on the ground that the whole affair should be sifted to the bottom before the primary on August 12.

Nye's telegram in reply follows:

"Full opportunity will be afforded you and others to lay pertinent facts before the committee, but I found the situation and the charges which were being studied in Nebraska of so serious a nature that I cannot consent to further hearing until more members of the committee than myself are available to conduct same and continue the investigation, and such opportunity will not afford itself prior to August 25 or thereabouts. For days prior to the hearings in Nebraska effort was made to locate Norris of Broken Bow and serve upon him subpoenae for his presence before the committee. Through his presence in Omaha and Lincoln on July 17 and 18 he could not help but know the committee desired his presence.

Stayed In Hiding.

"Yet he stayed in hiding until the committee had adjourned, which adjournment was made necessary by other engagements. Had Norris of Broken Bow done other than keep out of reach of subpoena servers and had there been more candor and less evasion and less of what possibly constitutes perjury during the hearings which were held, the hearings could have been closed with the Broken Bow and Lincoln session and there would have been avoided what now is charged as delay occasioned by prejudice and unfairness, which do not exist. I can see no particular significance in the fact that affidavit of withdrawal was placed in the hands of Senator Norris' friends too late to be filed with secretary of state and at the very hour when court was making decision.

"If there is any significance about it, it reflects further injury on the cause of Norris of Broken Bow and his alleged sponsors. I resent your insinuation that this committee urged or authorized or would tolerate any wiretapping program and advise you that no authorized agent of this committee did anything of the kind.

Could Have Been Heard.

"If there is any ground for your insinuation that the filing of Norris of Broken Bow was the result of a political scheme having for its object fraud on the officers and chief justice of Nebraska and on the voters of the state of Nebraska, then it is directly contrary to the conclusions which had to be drawn as a result of the testimony heard during the July hearings in Nebraska, at which time you could have availed yourself of the opportunity to be heard."

Reference to wiretapping was in reply to Matson's charge that federal agents had tapped the telephones of opponents of Senator Norris. The charge was not elaborated in Matson's telegram.

IS BADLY BEATEN BY FOUR OTHERS WHO MAKE ESCAPE

OMAHA, Aug. 2—(AP)—Beaten by four young men when he reprimanded them in a local park early today, Joseph Foy, 25, suffered serious injuries and is in a serious condition at a local hospital.

Miss Alice Swanson of Gothenburg, student nurse at a hospital here, who was with Foy and another couple, told police that a car containing the four young men drove up to the place where she and Foy were parked and shouted at them, whereupon Foy challenged all of them to fight. The four set upon him, beat him and then escaped, she said.

BEATRICE CLAIMS THE HEAT TROPHY

BEATRICE, Neb., Aug. 2—(AP)—Wilbur Yarger, federal weather observer here, today said Beatrice need not yield the withered palm of heat wave record honors to Lincoln or any other Nebraska city. In July Beatrice scored 110½ once, 110 twice, and the temperature was between 100 and 108 on 16 of the 31 days of the month. The average for the month, he said, was 97.3, which so far as local records can be obtained, stands as an all time high.

Man Kills Wife, Foster Son and Self in Carolina

KINSTON, N. C., Aug. 2—(AP)—Charles K. Bailey, 52, sportsman, today shot and killed his wife, Irene, 40, and his foster son, Henry, 8, and then committed suicide.

Police said Bailey, apparently shot his wife while she was preparing breakfast, went to a bedroom and killed the boy and then returned to the kitchen where he shot himself.

Letters found by police gave detailed funeral instructions.

Bailey for years was clerk of Police court here. He was discharged some months ago following an alleged shortage in his accounts.

Taminosian Attends Wedding of Daughter

Is Escorted By Two Detectives Of Omaha Police Force, Who Go At His Solicitation.

OMAHA, Aug. 2—(AP)— Miss Florence Taminosian, daughter of Mrs. Reuben Cook of Omaha, was wed here last night to Kenneth Clark at a fashionable ceremony.

The father, John I. Taminosian, was present—with two husky detectives of the Omaha police force as his escorts.

According to Taminosian, his daughter and former wife had sent word to him several days ago that he was not wanted at the wedding.

"So I went to Mayor Metcalfe, explained who I was and asked for police protection when I entered the church," Taminosian said. The mayor assented and orded that two detectives be detailed to escort the father.

However, when he went to the police station, the police told him that his former wife and his daughter had asked for police to keep him out of the church.

"Back to Mayor Metcalfe I went," he said. "The mayor then called my daughter and she said that I could attend."

Taminosian, however, insisted on having officers with him. He did—two of them. After the wedding Taminosian said he was satisfied.

Taminosian began his career in Omaha as an evangelist and finally went to Lincoln. There he was arrested for a liquor law violation and after a trial in which he acted as his own attorney was sentenced to serve ten months in jail. He did and is now living in Omaha.

Taminosian and the present Mrs. Cook were divorced in 1927.

Paul Mahood Wins Fourth Nebraska Tennis Title

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

After an absence of one season, Paul Mahood of Lincoln again is perched on the top pedestal of Nebraska tennis. The capital city racqueteer, who a fortnight ago swept through to Lincoln city honors, captured the Nebraska singles championship Friday afternoon when he scored a straight set victory over Paul Halpine of Omaha. Mahood won 6-2, 7-5, 6-1.

The Friday victory was the fourth state title brought to Lincoln by Mahood, the capital city ace having won in 1924, 1925 and 1928.

Mahood's triumph left the Lincoln Tennis club in possession of all individual honors in state competition. Art Hoag and Wilbur Haegen having Thursday made certain of an all-Lincoln junior finale. The Hoag-Haegen match went over until Saturday afternoon when darkness halted the program of finals Friday

Omaha Seniors Win.

The championship spoils in the doubles events, however, finds Lincoln sharing honors with Omaha The capital city team of Art Hoag and Wilbur Haegen waded through Jim Gleason and Dick Zoesch of Omaha to win junior honors, 6-0, 7-5. The senior title went to Ray Phelps and Paul Halpine of Omaha when they captured a three-hour marathon from Art Hoag and Paul Mahood, capital city entries, 7-5, 3-6, 2-6, 6-3, 11-9.

Mahood dominated his match with Halpine except for a brief lapse during the second set when he found himself with a love-four set call against him. He promptly rallied, brought the count to four games each and finally pulled out the set.

Mahood Had Speed.

The champion had too much speed on his drives for the Omaha finalist. Mahood's back-hand was at its best yet Halpine in the first and third sets repeatedly drove for his opponent's left corner and permitted Mahood to score cross court with his favorite shot A chop-stroke kept Halpine around the baseline and Mahood frequently sallied to the net for points when he needed them.

Halpine was nervous at the start of the match and Mahood took a 2-0 lead, winning his service at 4-2 and taking the benefit of two double faults to break through on Halpine.

Mahood double-faulted the third game away and the next two games failed to follow service. However, in the sixth Mahood slipped across three placements and was in front 4-2. Three well placed drives and a smash enabled Mahood to rally and take the seventh and he won the set, 6-2, when he drove down the sidelines to take Halpine's service

Halpine Tries Rally.

Halpine started hoisting lobbs at the start of the second set and took Mahood's service and won his own for the first time during the match. He came from behind a 1-3 count to take the third game and again won his own service to lead four-love.

Mahood applied the steam at this point and started the Omaha player running, taking two games without much trouble and stopping a Halpine rally to bring the count to 4-all.

With the set score tied, Halpine apparently went hay-wire and when he missed a game-point kill, the Omaha player became unsteady and dropped the set by a 7-5 score.

The third set was a route. After they had each won love games, Halpine went completely to pieces, committing a series of errors which permitted Mahood to win 20 of the last 24 points in the match. Score:

First set—
Mahood	4	4	3	4	1	4	5	—25—6

Phelps-Halpine Winner.

Art Hoag and Paul Mahood, Lincoln, lost a heart-breaking match to Ray Phelps and Paul Halpine of Omaha, the state doubles championship swinging on the result. The match went the five-set limit and lasted more than three hours

After losing the first set, the Lincoln duo started clicking and swept through the next two in each fashion. They got away to a flying start in the fourth set only to finally lose it. In the fifth set, which went to the champions at 11-9, the Lincoln team had two match points but neither time could connect for the winning shot.

Match a Marathon.

The match was a regular marathon with all points closely contested and the participants well exhausted at the close of the play. Some idea of how warm the battle waged may be gained from a glance at the point score which shows the final set of 20 games with a scant two point margin in favor of the winning team.

The match hinged on the work at the net and in this department the Omaha players were superior, their smashes and placements keeping Mahood and Hoag well back of the baseline a majority of the time during the last two sets.

Phelps and Halpine took the first set which was a nip-and-tuck affair with the Omaha pair leading 4-3, only to have this advantage wiped away and the capital city team get in front 5-4. At this point, Halpine cut loose with a string of placements which downed the set and the Omahans rolled out two long games to win it 7-5.

Mahood and Hoag had everything their own way in the next two sets, leading in the second 5-2 and winning at 6-3 and racing away to a 5-1 lead in the third and winning at 6-2

Title Leaves the Bay.

The Lincoln team apparently had the match in the bag during the fourth set when, after reaching a 3-2 game advantage with their opponents in a lobbing game, which had carried them through the two preceding sets, started falling short and Phelps and Halpine took their stand at the net to cut short the lobbs for kills and placements, winning a 10-point game to bring the score to three-all and then speeding through the eleven remaining games with the loss of only two points

Mahood and Hoag again apparently were in with the title at the start of the fifth set when they opened by winning his first service with the loss of only one point and Phelps lost his service by the same margin. The Omaha team, however, broke through Mahood's service but were trailing one game to three when Halpine was unable to get his offerings across in customary style and committed two costly double faults.

Hoag became erratic at this stage of the game and dropped his service, while Phelps rallied with a love game on his service to bring the games to three-all

Flurry of Chances.

The Lincoln pair pulled ahead at 4-3 and games went with service to find the Lincoln team leading 5-4 On the tenth game Mahood and Hoag had one match point, but failed to connect for the winning point Halpine cutting one to the far corner which found the Lincolnites flat-footed.

Mahood and Hoag had the vantage game in the set call and 7-6 8-7 and 9-8, having another match point in the eighteenth game only to have the Omaha pair tighten their defense and win a long drawn out game after 20 points It was the final Lincoln gesture for the Omaha champs won the next two games with the loss of two points each The deciding game found Phelps and Halpine with a 40-15 lead. Phelps missed a smash at the net on the first match point and Halpine delivered a passing shot at the net for the next point and the match-winner

The fifth set was so warmly contested that only a margin of two points separated the teams in the final score.

RACQUET PREXY PRAISES YOUTH

Tennis Leaders Declares Young New Yorker Cream of Crop.

BY TED VOSBURGH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2—(AP)—The cockiest member of the new crop of young American tennis players is Sydney B. Wood, the surprise conqueror of Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, Calif., in straight sets at Seabright, N. J., yesterday.

"Wood has all the confidence in the world," said Louis B. Dailey, president of the United States lawn tennis association, "and that is in his favor. The cocky spirit helps in sport provided it isn't carried to over-confidence. It played a big part in the baseball successes of Ty Cobb and it helps make Wood a highly promising tennis player."

Dailey, incidentally, was one of the few to pick Wood to stop the sensational Vines, who has been bowling over such high ranking players as Frank Hunter, Frank Shields and Dick Williams. The genial head of the U. S. L. T. A., in fact, believes Vines' defeat may turn out to be a blessing in disguise.

Vines In-and-Outer.

With Vines hitting only the high spots, Dailey and others were a bit apprehensive lest his chances be spoiled by too fast a rise to fame and too much hero worship at an early stage in his career.

"If Vines is unspoiled by premature praise," he said, "I believe he will go far.

"Vines at this time is an in-and-outer. Also it must be remembered that a good showing in the metropolitan turf court and the Seabright invitation do not make a champion. The most important thing is to allow him to develop in his own way and I shall endeavor to see that he has a chance to do so."

Bryant Grant, the little Atlanta youth who became one of the current tennis sensations by winning the national clay court title recently, does not seem to Dailey to be quite so good a prospect.

Grant Cramped In Style.

"He plays a baseline driving game," he commented. "He hasn't the all-court game that Vines possesses and for that reason his possibilities are more limited."

Dailey said he had not seen enough of the playing of Cliff Sutter, the new intercollegiate champion from New Orleans, to express an opinion concerning his potentialities. Sutter was eliminated by Wood in two deuced sets in the semi-finals at Seabright.

Grand, Wood and perhaps Vines are expected to be among the entrants in the annual invitation tournament at Southampton, N. Y, next week. The Davis cup players, who sailed Wednesday from Europe, are scheduled to land on Tuesday but are not likely to play at Southampton, as they are over-tennised and need a rest.

British Net Stars On Way to America

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 2—(AP)—Five British tennis players sailed on the Mauretania today to participate in the American championships.

The party consisted of Betty Nuthall, her brother, Jimmy and three men designated as official representatives of the British lawn tennis association—F. J. Perry, G. N. Lee and J. S. Oliff. L. A. Godfree, captain and manager of the delegation, will sail later.

Mud Hens Purchase Montreal Twirler

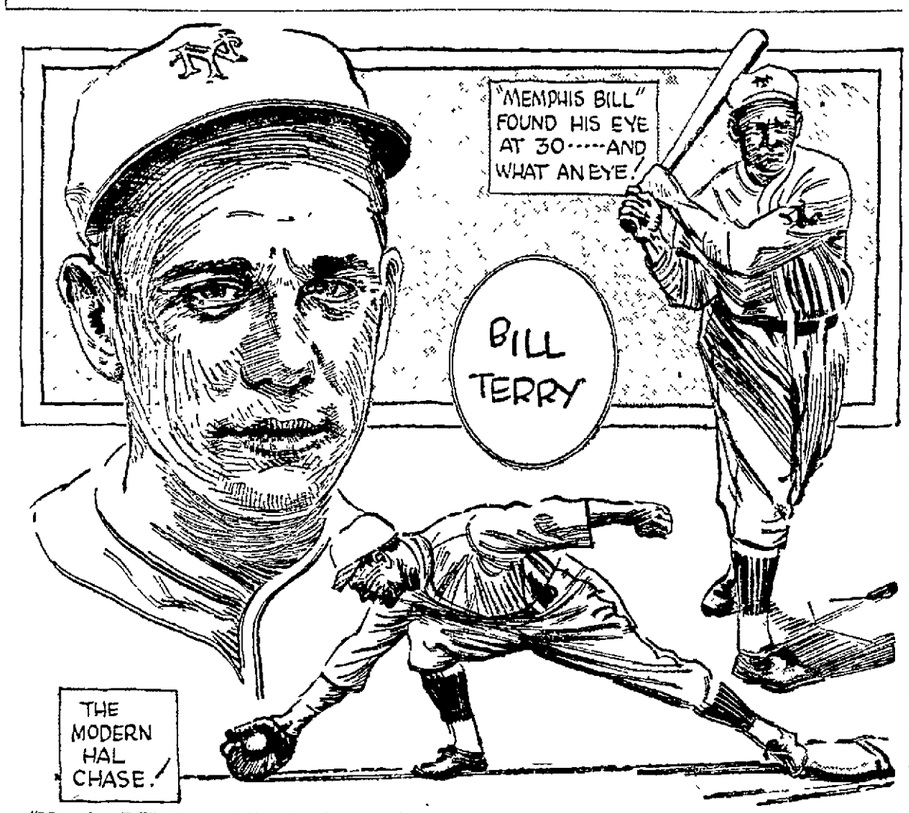
CHANGE OF STANCE HELPED TERRY.



"Memphis Bill" Terry of the Giants, is getting general recognition as the game's greatest first baseman due to his sensational hitting, begun last year when he changed his form at the plate.

GEHRIG FRONTS LEAGUE HITTERS

Yankee Lou Tops Mark By Al Simmons In American Race.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 — (AP) — Lou Gehrig, the New York Yankee's first baseman, has broken Al Simmons' lease on the individual batting leadership of the American league, unofficial averages which include Wednesday's games, revealed today.

Maintaining his average of .387 during the fifteenth week of the campaign, while the pitchers were knocking ten points off the Athletic outfielder's mark, Gehrig topped the list by seven points. Simmons, with his average of .380, was only four points in front of his teammate, Mickey Cochrane, who had .376.

The Yankee firm of Ruth and Gehrig between them held four other leaderships. Besides leading the league in slugging, Gehrig last week batted in 16 runs to retain the leadership with 125, and his accumulation of 291 total bases also was easily the best Ruth added only one home run, but his total of 36 was the honor mark, with Gehrig four behind. The Babe also led the scorers with 114 runs.

Hodapp Lead In Danger.

Gehrig also threatened to displace Johnny Hodapp of Cleveland, in hits. The Indian second baseman hit safely 10 times during the week for a season total of 147, but was only one ahead of Gehrig who connected 12 times. Marty Mc Manus of Detroit, held on to the base stealing and two base hit titles for another week. He swiped one sack to bring his total to 16, and although he failed to get another double, his total of 32 was still good enough. Carl Reynolds, young Chicago outfielder, banged out two triples to break his tie with Earl Combs of the Yankees and led with 15.

Grove Fronts Regulars.

Edwin Wells, Yankee southpaw, still was the nominal leader of the pitchers, with eight victories and two defeats, representing no change over last week, but Bob Grove, the Athletics' fireballer, headed the hurlers taking regular turn. Grove won two games during the week and had 15 victories and four defeats, while Fred Marberry of Washington, gained credit for one triumph and had 12 victories and four setbacks. Grove was ousted from the strike out leadership by George Earnshaw, his teammate, who fanned 11 men in two games to bring his collection to 126, one better than Grove's mark.

The Yankees lost three points from their team batting average, but were still at the top of the heap with .313. Cleveland remained the same at .307 to retain second place, while Washington added a point to hold third place at .301. Philadelphia fielded at the same gait as last week, .974, and held the lead, with Washington still second at .972. Cleveland clicked off 10 double plays to make it 112 for the season and widen its margin over Detroit which had 106.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—(INS)—Primo Carnera, the giant Italian pugilist who has been flooring a long list of battlers in various sections of the country for the last six months or so, today was granted an extension of his stay in this country.

The immigration bureau's board of review of the labor department, which yesterday heard Carnera's plea that he be given time additional to his visitors permit, now expired, decided he can remain in the United States and continue his prize-fighting engagements until Dec. 31, this year.

The original permit, given to all visiting artists, specifically stated that he must return to Italy at the expiration of six months. This period expired a few weeks ago and Carnera was notified that he must return to his native country.

Paul Mahood Wins Fourth Nebraska Tennis Title

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

After an absence of one season, Paul Mahood of Lincoln again is perched on the top pedestal of Nebraska tennis. The capital city racqueteer, who a fortnight ago swept through to Lincoln city honors, captured the Nebraska singles championship Friday afternoon when he scored a straight set victory over Paul Halpine of Omaha. Mahood won 6-2, 7-5, 6-1.

The Friday victory was the fourth state title brought to Lincoln by Mahood, the capital city ace having won in 1924, 1925 and 1928.

Mahood's triumph left the Lincoln Tennis club in possession of all individual honors in state competition. Art Hoag and Wilbur Haegen having Thursday made certain of an all-Lincoln junior finale. The Hoag-Haegen match went over until Saturday afternoon when darkness halted the program of finals Friday.

Omaha Seniors Win.

The championship spoils in the doubles events, however, finds Lincoln sharing honors with Omaha. The capital city team of Art Hoag and Wilbur Haegen waded through Jim Gleason and Dick Zoesch of Omaha to win junior honors, 6-0, 7-5. The senior title went to Ray Phelps and Paul Halpine of Omaha when they captured a three-hour marathon from Art Hoag and Paul Mahood, capital city entries, 7-5, 3-6, 2-6, 6-3, 11-9.

Mahood dominated his match with Halpine except for a brief lapse during the second set when he found himself with a love-four set call against him. He promptly rallied, brought the count to four games each and finally pulled out the set.

Mahood Had Speed.

The champion had too much speed on his drives for the Omaha finalist. Mahood's back-hand was at its best yet Halpine in the first and third sets repeatedly drove for his opponent's left corner and permitted Mahood to score cross court with his favorite shot. A chop-stroke kept Halpine around the baseline and Mahood frequently sallied to the net for points when he needed them.

Halpine was nervous at the start of the match and Mahood took a 2-0 lead, winning his service at 4-2 and taking the benefit of two double faults to break through on Halpine.

Mahood double-faulted the third game away and the next two games failed to follow service. However, in the sixth Mahood slipped across three placements and was in front 4-2. Three well placed drives and a smash enabled Mahood to rally and take the seventh and he won the set, 6-2, when he drove down the sidelines to take Halpine's service.

Halpine Tries Rally.

Halpine started hoisting lobbs at the start of the second set and took Mahood's service and won his own for the first time during the match. He came from behind a 1-3 count to take the third game and again won his own service to lead four-love.

Mahood applied the steam at this point and started the Omaha player running, taking two games without much trouble and stopping a Halpine rally to bring the count to 4-all.

With the set score tied, Halpine apparently went hay-wire and when he missed a game-point kill, the Omaha player became unsteady and dropped the set by a 7-5 score.

The third set was a route. After they had each won love games, Halpine went completely to pieces, committing a series of errors which permitted Mahood to win 20 of the last 24 points in the match. Score:

Phelps-Halpine Winner.

Art Hoag and Paul Mahood, Lincoln, lost a heart-breaking match to Ray Phelps and Paul Halpine of Omaha, the state doubles championship swinging on the result. The match went the five-set limit and lasted more than three hours.

After losing the first set, the Lincoln duo started clicking and swept through the next two in each fashion. They got away to a flying start in the fourth set only to finally lose it. In the fifth set, which went to the champions at 11-9, the Lincoln team had two match points but neither time could connect for the winning shot.

Match a Marathon.

The match was a regular marathon with all points closely contested and the participants well exhausted at the close of the play. Some idea of how warm the battle waged may be gained from a glance at the point score which shows the final set of 20 games with a scant two point margin in favor of the winning team.

The match hinged on the work at the net and in this department the Omaha players were superior, their smashes and placements keeping Mahood and Hoag well back of the baseline a majority of the time during the last two sets.

Phelps and Halpine took the first set which was a ding-dong affair with the Omaha pair leading 4-2, only to have this vantage melt away and the capital city team set out in front 6-5. At this point, Halpine cut loose with a string of placements which decided the set and the Omahans pulled out two long games to win it 7-5.

Mahood and Hoag had everything their own way in the next two sets, leading in the second 5-2 and winning at 6-3 and racing away to a 5-1 lead in the third and winning at 6-2.

Title Leaves the Bag.

The Lincoln team apparently had the match in the bag during the fourth set when they gained a 3-2 game advantage. At this point their lobbing game, which had carried them through the two preceding sets, started failing short and Phelps and Halpine took their stand at the net to cut short the hoists for kills and placements, winning a 10-point game to bring the score to three-all and then speeding through the three remaining games with the loss of only two points.

Mahood and Hoag again apparently were in with the title at the start of the fifth set when Hoag opened by winning his fast service with the loss of only one point and Phelps lost his service by the same margin. The Omaha team, however, broke through Mahood's service ,but were trailing one game to three when Halpine was unable to get his offerings across in customary style and committed two costly double faults.

Hoag became erratic at this stage of the game and dropped his service, while Phelps rallied with a love game on his service to bring the games to three-all.

Plenty of Chances.

The Lincoln pair pulled ahead at 4-3 and games went with service to find the Lincoln team leading, 5-4. On the tenth game Mahood and Hoag had one match point, but failed to connect for the winning point, Halpine cutting one to the far corner which found the Lincolnites flat-footed.

Mahood and Hoag had the vantage game in the set call and 7-6, 8-7 and 9-8, having another match point in the eighteenth game only to have the Omaha pair tighten their defense and win a long drawn out game after 10 points. It was the final Lincoln gesture for the Omaha champs won the next two games with the loss of two points each. The deciding game found Phelps and Halpine with a 40-15 lead. Phelps missed a smash at the net on the first match point and Halpine delivered a passing shot at the net for the next point and the match-winner.

The fifth set was so warmly contested that only a margin of two points separated the teams in the final score.

RACQUET PREXY PRAISES YOUTH

Tennis Leaders Declares Young New Yorker Cream of Crop.

BY TED VOSBURGH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2—(AP)—The cockiest member of the new crop of young American tennis players is Sydney B. Wood, the surprise conqueror of Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, Calif., in straight sets at Seabright, N. J., yesterday.

"Wood has all the confidence in the world," said Louis B. Dailey, president of the United States lawn tennis association, "and that is in his favor. The cocky spirit helps in sport provided it isn't carried to over-confidence. It played a big part in the baseball successes of Ty Cobb and it helps make Wood a highly promising tennis player."

Dailey, incidentally, was one of the few to pick Wood to stop the sensational Vines, who has been bowling over such high ranking players as Frank Hunter, Frank Shields and Dick Williams. The genial head of the U. S. L. T. A., in fact, believes Vines' defeat may turn out to be a blessing in disguise.

Vines In-and-Outer.

With Vines hitting only the high spots, Dailey and others were a bit apprehensive lest his chances be spoiled by too fast a rise to fame and too much hero worship at an early stage in his career.

"If Vines is unspoiled by premature praise," he said, "I believe he will go far.

"Vines at this time is an in-and-outer. Also it must be remembered that a good showing in the metropolitan turf court and the Seabright invitation do not make a champion. The most important thing is to allow him to develop in his own way and I shall endeavor to see that he has a chance to do so."

Bryant Grant, the little Atlanta youth who became one of the current tennis sensations by winning the national clay court title recently, does not seem to Daily to be quite so good a prospect.

Grant Cramped In Style.

"He plays a baseline driving game," he commented. "He hasn't the all-court game that Vines possesses and for that reason his possibilities are more limited."

Dailey said he had not seen enough of the playing of Cliff Sutter, the new intercollegiate champion from New Orleans, to express an opinion concerning his potentialities. Sutter was eliminated by Wood in two deuced sets in the semi-finals at Seabright.

Grand, Wood and perhaps Vines are expected to be among the entrants in the annual invitation tournament at Southampton, N. Y., next week. The Davis cup players, who sailed Wednesday from Europe, are scheduled to land on Tuesday but are not likely to play at Southampton, as they are over-tennised and need a rest.

British Net Stars On Way to America

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 2—(AP)—Five British tennis players sailed on the Mauretania today to participate in the American championships.

The party consisted of Betty Nuthall, her brother, Jimmy ;and three men designated as official representatives of the British lawn tennis association—F. J. Perry, G. N. Lee and J. S. Oliff. L. A. Godfree, captain and manager of the delegation, will sail later.

CHANGE OF STANCE HELPED TERRY.

GEHRIG FRONTS LEAGUE HITTERS

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 — (AP) — Lou Gehrig, the New York Yankee's first baseman, has broken Al Simmons' lease on the individual batting leadership of the American league, unofficial averages which include Wednesday's games, revealed today.

Maintaining his average of .387 during the fifteenth week of the campaign, while the pitchers were knocking ten points off the Athletic outfielder's mark, Gehrig topped the list by seven points. Simmons, with his average of .380, was only four points in front of his teammate, Mickey Cochrane, who had .376.

The Yankee firm of Ruth and Gehrig between them held four other leaderships. Besides leading the league in slugging, Gehrig last week batted in 16 runs to retain the leadership with 125, and his accumulation of 291 total bases also was easily the best. Ruth added only one home run, but his total of 36 was the honor mark, with Gehrig four behind. The Babe also led the scorers with 114 runs.

Hodapp Lead In Danger.

Gehrig also threatened to displace Johnny Hodapp of Cleveland, in hits. The Indian second baseman hit safely 10 times during the week for a season total of 147, but was only one ahead of Gehrig who connected 12 times. Marty Mc Manus of Detroit, held on to the base stealing and two base hit titles for another week. He swiped one sack to bring his total to 16, and although he failed to get another double, his total of 32 was still good enough. Carl Reynolds, young Chicago outfielder, banged out two triples to break his tie with Earl Combs of the Yankees and led with 15.

Grove Fronts Regulars.

Edwin Wells, Yankee southpaw, still was the nominal leader of the pitchers, with eight victories and two defeats, representing no change over last week, but Bob Grove, the Athletics' fireballer, headed the hurlers taking regular turn. Grove won two games during the week and had 15 victories and four defeats, while Fred Marberry of Washington, gained credit for one triumph and had 12 victories and four setbacks. Grove was ousted from the strike out leadership by George Earnshaw, his teammate, who fanned 11 men in two games to bring his collection to 126, one better than Grove's mark.

The Yankees lost three points from their team batting average, but were still at the top of the heap with .313. Cleveland remained the same at .307 to retain second place, while Washington added a point to hold third place at .301. Philadelphia fielded at the same gait as last week, .974, and held the lead, with Washington still second at .972. Cleveland clicked off 10 double plays to make it 112 for the season and widen its margin over Detroit which had 106.

PLATTERS WIN SERIES FINALE

Links Drop 5-4 Game To Buffs; Elks Lead League.

Lincoln did everything but win from North Platte in the final game of the series Friday night. The Links collected 13 hits to nine for the Platters, were guilty of only two fielding bobbles while the Buffaloes kicked seven chances and Krenk, Lincoln twirler, fanned fifteen while Winstead, his opponent, struck out six. The Platters, however, bunched their bingles and overcame a 4-1 margin to win 5-4. Schleicher's two bagger and Winstead's single in the eighth iced the game for the Buffs.

Norfolk jumped into the league leadership by sweeping the series with Norton, winning the third 15-3. Davis sprinkled nine pokes over the nine-inning route, while Elk batsmen were pounding the servings of F. Sidle, Thielen and Palarang for 16 bingles.

McCook Hops On York.

Eissler gave York five runs while his playmates were landing on Langkop, Rasmussen and Householder for a dozen tallies. The McCook win pushed York into a tie with McCook for second place in the standing, Norfolk having replaced the Dukes as pacemakers.

Grand Island made it two out of three in winning the final contest of the Fairbury series. Long went the route for the Islanders, while Primm, Gray and Logan shared duty in the Jeff box. Bodie's single and Gembler's long home run won the game in the tenth.

Grand Island will open at the Link lot Saturday night at 8:30. The series will include a Sunday doubleheader.
